Federal School Aid Bill Killed By House Vote

Eisenhower's 'Lack' Of Support Blamed By Measure's Sponsor

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Augustine B. Kelly (D-Pa.), author of the $1½ billion school aid bill killed by the House, blamed President Eisenhower today for its defeat.

Other Democratic supporters joined him in the criticism, but two Republicans who also favored the bill disagreed.

"I lay defeat of the bill squarely at the feet of the President," Kelley reported. "I think if he had come out with a strong statement we could have won—we only lost by five votes."

On the other side, Rep. Frelinghuysen (R-N.J.), a strong backer of the bill, said, "I think the President did all he reasonably could."

And Rep. McConnell (R-Pa.) GOP floor leader for the bill, blamed "a combination of things" for the measure's second defeat in two years.

Eisenhower has made a federal school aid program a major plank in his legislative platform for several years. But he let it be known earlier this week he was "not entirely satisfied" with the bill the House was considering, although he would sign the measure if Congress passed it.

BY A 208-203 rollcall vote, the House adopted a motion by Rep. Howard W. Smith (D-Va.) to strike out the enacting clause of the bill—in effect, kill it.

That vote confirmed an earlier tentative vote, 153-126, to kill the bill.

Ohio representatives voted 16-7 in favor of a motion to kill the bill. Ohio's vote:

Democrat for: Feighan.

Republicans for: Baumhart, Betts, Bow, Brown, Clevenger, Dennis, Henderson, Hess, Jenkins, McCullough, McGregor, Marshall, Schenck, Scherer, Vorys.

Democrats against: Ashley, Kirwan, Hays, Polk, Vanik.

Republicans against: Ayers, Bolton.

The House sealed the measure's doom earlier by attaching an anti segregation amendment offered by Rep. Wainwright (R-N.Y.). This came by a 136-105 vote.

It would have denied the proposed federal aid to any school district operating segregated schools in violation of the Supreme Court's integration ruling.

Both Democratic and Republican backers of federal aid to school construction said it was dead now for a long time.

"I think it's lost for good," Kelley said. "That was the second effort in two years."

Last year the House defeated a similar measure by a 224-194 vote, also after tacking on an antisegregation amendment.

The bill would have distributed $300 million a year for five years to the states, allotting half on the basis of school age population and half on the basis of financial need.

'Little Inch' Pipeline Blows Under Pressure

CROOKSVILLE (W.Va.)—A break in the "Little Inch" pipeline a mile northwest of here late Thursday caused an explosion heard over a wide area and hurled dust and dirt 500 feet into the air.

Oman Rebels Pasted For 3rd Straight Day

LONDON (AP)—Royal Air Force Venom fighter-bombers attacked rebel strongholds in Oman today for the third straight day, according to dispatches reaching British newspapers.

These reports said the planes fired rockets and cannon shells into a fort at Tanuf, seven miles from rebel headquarters at Nizwa, after expiration of a 48-hour warning. The dispatches said the Tanuf fort was deserted when the planes hit it.

Earlier in the day, Britain angrily denied charges that RAF planes were attacking civilians and bypassing military targets in the raids against the rebels.

A Foreign Office statement described as "pure invention" statements issued in Cairo by representative of the rebel leader, Imam Ghaleb Bin Ali, alleging there were civilian casualties in RAF strikes against Nizwa, capital of the remote Arabian Peninsula sultanate.

BRITAIN says it sent planes against rebellious tribesmen at the request of the Sultan of Muscat and Oman.

British officials in Bahrain were awaiting the return of Sir Bertrand Burrows, Britain's political resident officer for the Persian Gulf, from conferences with Sultan Said Bin Taimur in Muscat.

It was expected that when Burrows returns it will be determined how Britain will go to crush the rebellion.

"If Britain fails to put down this revolt," one Briton commented, "we will be finished in the Persian Gulf."

In addition to the strategic value of the area, Britain has immense oil wealth in the region.

5 Convicted In Pennsylvania Turnpike Fraud

Ex-Commission Chief Ruled Guilty in Plan To Reap $19½ Million

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP)—Five men were convicted Thursday night of conspiracy to defraud the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission of $19½ million by drilling countless "unnecessary" holes to fill in abandoned miles along the superhighway's right-of-way.

A reporter who flew over or blocked by landslides. Highways were closed. Thousands of homes were washed away or flooded.

Railroads were washed out or blocked by landslides. Highways were closed. Thousands of homes were washed away or flooded.

Four other men were acquitted in the case that Gov. George M. Leader has said involved "one of the greatest public swindles of all time."

One of the convicted men was former Turnpike Commission Chairman Thomas J. Evans, Coaldale, Pa., and another was his nephew Charles W. Stickler Jr., president of a Reading, Pa., engineering firm formed in 1952 with $1,800 capital and worth a stock value four years later of more than $1 million.

After a 42-day trial, longest in Dauphin County history, the verdicts were read nervously by jury foreman Harvey Pennell, a 73-year-old retired Williamsport coal miner. The panel of seven men and five women deliberated 3 hours 45 minutes.

EVANS AND suspended Turnpike Commissioner James F. Torrance of Export, like Evans a Republican, were convicted of conspiracy and of misconduct in office. Found guilty of conspiracy and false pretense were Stickler and Clayton A. Lanslide, former general manager and vice president of Stickler's engineering firm, Manu-Mine Research and Development Co. Paul J. McNeill, former chief finance officer of the commission, was convicted of conspiracy.

The turnpike case developed from an investigation after the Democratic administration of Gov. Leader came into office. The commission, formerly had been under Republican control.

Involved in the trial were technical engineering opinions on what was the right way and what was the wrong way to fill in old mine voids and prevent future cave-ins along an eastern Pennsylvania section of the turnpike.

The state contended a contract awarded Manu-Mine in February 1955 was used by the nine defendants to fleece the commission and gain a 100 per cent profit for the firm through "made work."

Manu-Mine was hired to fill subsurface mine voids beneath a six-mile section of the right-of-way of the turnpike extension in Luzerne and Lackawanna counties.

Manu-Mine drilled more than 60,000 feet of holes to reach the mine voids with fill beneath the extension. It asked $8½ million for the work and had received $6,700,000 when the contract was canceled.

The prosecution maintained the firm had intended to continue the work until it had received $19½ million. The contract was opened, with Manu-Mine charging the commission $12.50 a foot for the holes that were drilled.

The cheating by false pretense convictions carry maximum penalties of $5,000 fines and five-year prison terms. The conspiracy convictions carry penalties of $500 fines and two-year terms.

Two passengers in the car were hurt.

Greene County officers identified the dead man as Albert J. Masters.

Julia Dingus, also apparently of Dayton, is in critical condition in Miami Valley Hospital, Dayton, and Cirilda McBrayer, 69, Dayton, is being treated for head lacerations at Dr. R. L. Haynes' hospital here.

Everett Hughes 52, of near Jamestown, driver of the truck owned by the Xenia Distributing Co., was not hurt.

Investigating officers said Masters, traveling west, had rounded a curve when he apparently lost control of his car striking the left front of the approaching truck. The victim was thrown to the pavement, and Dr. H. C. Schick, Greene County coroner, said he died of a skull fracture. The body was taken to the McMillan Funeral Home in Xenia.

5 Convicted In Pennsylvania Turnpike Fraud

Ex-Commission Chief Ruled Guilty in Plan To Reap $191/2 Million

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Five men were convicted Thursday night of conspiracy to defraud the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission of $19½ million by drilling countless "unnecessary" holes to fill in abandoned miles along the superhighway's right-of-way.

A reporter who flew over the area said Isahaya, a mountainous city of 57,000, looked "like a new sea" with only a few high points visible above the water.

Railroads were washed out or blocked by landslides. Highways were closed. Thousands of homes were washed away or flooded.

THE 29-INCH rainfall was one of the worst rainstorms in Japan's recorded weather. The rain and accompanying violent lightning disrupted communications, leaving many areas isolated except for intermittent radio contact.

The storm began Thursday morning, let up for a few hours late in the day, and then, in the words of one survivor at Isahaya:

"Suddenly an angry bolt of lightning cut the sky. Pounding thunder followed. Then the rains came. Not just by buckets full. It seemed like someone had dumped the contents of a lake on us from a giant barrel."

As the rain increased, floodwaters began pouring through Isahaya. Yasujiro Tachikawa said he watched the "dim outlines of broken houses and bushes drifting by like a procession of ghosts."

Chikara Iimasato, 25, the first evacuee brought to Nagasaki, said "I lived through hell. The flood reached the ceilings of my house in a few moments. Cascading rain mingled with deafening thunder and the screams of the dying. I don't know how I managed to swim in the swirling waters."

A fisherman picked up Yoko Komori, 20, clinging to a piece of lumber at sea 15 miles from shore.

"I don't remember anything except that the water snatched me away all of a sudden," she told rescuers.

The Japanese Navy and coast guard sent 19 fast patrol boats and landing vessels to the area to speed rescue work.

The U. S. Navy sent a helicopter to Kyushu and the U. S. Air Force ordered two more to the area.

BURLINGAME, Calif. (AP) — Miss Catherine Elvins, 20, year-old daughter of a prominent Seattle physician, was found beaten and stabbed to death Thursday night.

Market Pig Brings $136.80

Champions Sold At Fair Auction

Patty Cannon got $136.80 for her grand champion 4-H market pig when it was put up for auction at the Market Hog and Junior Fair Pig Sale at Fair Thursday afternoon.

A cross-breed animal, it weighed 190 pounds and brought $72 a hundred on a bid by the Union Stockyards here. A spokesman for the Union Stockyards said afterward that no special plans had been made for the disposition of the champion and added: "We just want to support these young people and the Fair."

Had Patty sold her pig on the open market that same day she would have received $21.35 a hundred for it, a total of $40.57; thus, her champion brought more than three times that much when sold at the Fair.

The grand champion of the open show, entered by John Rhoads, brought $35 a hundred on a bid by the New Holland Grain Co. It also weighed 190 pounds.

The reserve 4-H champion sold by Tim Kellough was bought by the Moorman Feed Co. for $45 a hundred. It weight 210 pounds.

The grand 4-H champion pen-of-three pigs sold by Larry Avey was bought by the Eshelman Feed Co. for $41 a hundred. The three weighed 605 pounds.

CCC Highway Scene Of Rear-End Crash

The fourth collision thus far at the site of CCC Highway construction work brought bruises and abrasions to a Sandusky man and a reckless operation charge against a Washington C. H. man about 6:25 p.m. Thursday.

Treated by a physician was Lee Johnson, Jr., 26, who was injured when his car allegedly was rammed in the rear by a vehicle driven by Paul Johns, 36, of 1129 Willard St.

The other occurred about 7:50 p.m. when Almer D. Ritenour, 67, of Jamestown, allegedly came out of Temple St. and hit the back bumper of a car driven by Terry Bright, 23, of 913 Washington Ave., going north on Lewis St.

Fair Attendance

Fair directors gave the credit for the big turnout to two factors: (1) the size and variety of the Fair and (2) the clear and relatively cool weather.

The Fairground, which was left muddy and soggy by last Tuesday's rains, was dry and firm Wednesday and Thursday; the rain was never any danger of vehicles bogging down.

Supporting the predictions for another big crowd Friday afternoon and night was the program. One of the biggest events of the Fair—the sale of the Junior Fair beef calves and sheep was scheduled to get under way in the sales pavilion at 8 p.m.

The market hogs were sold Thursday and brought prices far higher than they did last year. This is taken as an indication of increased interest, which could lead to another big crowd.

These sales are the climax of weeks of feeding and care by the farm boys and girls as they prepared their pigs, sheep and calves for the Fair show and auction.

Something new and different on the Fair program here this year is scheduled for 7:15 p.m. in front of the grandstand. It is the selection of two girls, from among the ten entered, to represent Fayette County in the area Queen of the Furrow contest at London Aug. 21.

The two will be picked by three judges for their natural attractiveness, personality, poise and appearance and introduced to the crowd and then interviewed individually before the microphone.

At the Madison County Fair at London, they will compete with winners from Delaware, Franklin, Marion, Madison, Morrow, Pickaway and Union counties for the honor of representing this area in the state competition.

The state queen will reign at the World Conservation Exposition and Plowing Matches at Peebles, in Adams County, Sept. 17-20.

Before they go to the Fair Friday evening, the ten entrants in the Fayette County contest will have a buffet supper in the Washington Hotel dining room. They are Patricia Beatty, Donna Chrisman, Carolyn Cragg, Marilyn Heistand, Barbara Sue Kneisley, Mary K. Recof, Marilyn Sue Rhoades, Katherine E. Smith, Nancy Ann Sullars and Nancy Stephenson.

The identity of the three local judges will not be made known until Friday night at the Fair.

Following the selection of the Fayette County's two representatives in the Queen of the Furrow contest, there will be a repeat performance of the Wild Animal Show featuring an ostrich race with Wilbur Snapp, Robert Boyd, Maynard Wilson, Robert Neumann, Eddie Kirk and Richard Gillen.

CCC Highway Scene Of Rear-End Crash

The fourth collision thus far at the site of CCC Highway construction work brought bruises and abrasions to a Sandusky man and a reckless operation charge against a Washington C. H. man about 6:25 p.m. Thursday.

Ag Engineering Awards Made At County Fair

Jerry Leland, Kenneth Conaway and Donny Creamer took top honors in the agricultural engineering division of the Fayette County Fair, while the crowd which packed the grandstand watched. G. D. Baker "bought" J. O. Garinger for $8; Cliff Hughes took Denzel Leggett for $12; the Bloomingburg Lions Club paid $14, the highest price of the day, for Richard Willis; William Williams for $6.50.

No body took the "slave" buying seriously, but the buyers insisted they would hold their bondsmen to Definitely a Rough Life But Jaycees Make It Pay!

Washington C. H. Jaycees make their promises of four hours of "work."

BAKER SAID he was going to order his "slave," to drive one of his horses in a race at the fair in Xenia—of course, he was not serious. Bitter said he thought he would dress David Ogan up like a monkey and chain him to his box at the Fair here Saturday afternoon.

The "slave market" was set up in the race track in front of the grandstand and, with Frank Weade as the auctioneer, six of the Jaycees were "sold" between races Thursday afternoon.

Two other slave markets will be held at the Fair—the Friday afternoon and the other Saturday afternoon.

The Jaycees also are dunked by those who will pay 25 cents for three balls to throw at the bulls-eye on the trigger that drops the perch from under them and plunges them into a tank of cold water.

Fortunately, for the Jaycees on the perch, the bulls-eye is small and difficult to hit. But, the Jaycees are taking many a dunking. Members take turns on the perch and as "barkers" for the attraction.

During the first three days of the Fair, the dunkings have added $270 to the Jaycee treasury.

Prehistoric Tusk Found in Kentucky

BURLINGTON, Ky. (AP)—A prehistoric tusk more than five feet long, believed to have been buried "at least 8,000 years," was found Thursday on a farm owned by Boone County Judge C. L. Cropper.

The tusk was found in the Big Bone Springs area where bones of prehistoric mammals and mastodons are believed to be buried. It was found by members of the Northern Kentucky Archeological Society.

Elliott Crawford, curator of the William Brainerd Memorial Museum of Covington said the ivory tusk probably was that of a primogenital or woolly mammoth.

MILLERSBURG (AP)—The sheriff of Holmes County said today that two convicts accused of slaying an Amish farmer had planned originally to kill the sheriff.

Additional contestants with completed projects included:

Electricity-Roger and Harold Stevenson, Ronnie Snyder, Roger Storer, Sonny Shiple, Timmy Penwell and Eddie Rose.

The committee, headed by Rep. Kline L. Roberts (R-Franklin), House Majority leader, will report the results of its survey to the Ohio Legislative Service Commission, fact-finding arm of the General Assembly. Recommendations will be submitted for action to the next Legislature.

NORWALK, OHIO—Freight and passenger traffic on the New York Central railroad was delayed for two hours Thursday when 22 cars of a New York-to-Chicago freight were derailed at nearby Ceylon. A Reduction Step -- How about Others Needed?

A recent news dispatch reporting that President Eisenhower has given an order to drop 100,000 men from the ranks of the armed services, has caused a lot of talk, much of it pointing toward the fact that the President is making an earnest try toward cutting federal government expense.

While this move to gain a little more economy in so-called defense expenditures, will reduce the armed forces to approximately 2,700,000 men, it still means the country is operating the largest peacetime military organization in its history, except during World War periods.

There is much argument, pro and con, as to whether our armed forces should be further reduced and most people seem doubtful on this subject in view of present world tension and threats.

One thing, however, on which most people seem to agree is that if the same effort toward reducing government expenditures was employed in other departments of federal government the effect on our taxes would be helpful.

One newspaper is pointing to the difficulties faced by the President in this respect, and to the dangerous cause behind such difficulties, made this comment: "Unfortunately, the presidential authority in administrative spheres is more diffuse than in the military. There are any number of reasons for this. One reason is that the naturally high rate of turnover in the Armed Forces makes reductions in service strength relatively painless in that such reductions are affected by the means of simply slackening off on recruitment until the new level is reached."

Moreover, the vast majority of non-rated enlisted men have no vested interest in their jobs, as have civilian employees on federal payrolls, and hence exert no power.

Office Drama Excels Stage

NEW YORK (AP)—Anyone who loves the theater can have a wonderful time in the average business office just watching how its inhabitants kill time.

This form of free entertainment holds more dramatic interest than a trip to the theater because at a theater you can see only one play at a time. In the average office, however, you watch anywhere from 10 to 100 actors putting on individual shows at the same time.

Nor is office acting in any sense on a lower level than that seen on Broadway. Actually it's far more subtle. Almost any showoff can be taught to step up on a stage and mouth a few memorized lines or gestures, but the acting skill shown by an office actor is pretending to work while really only killing time requires an ability to improvise under pressure, the real test of greatness in any field.

In this respect, it must be admitted, the American business world produces hundreds of thousands of unsung Barrymores every year.

They are "the great pretenders" whose highly polished art consists in appearing to be vitally busy while actually doing nothing but keeping an eye on the clock until quitting time.

If you look around, maybe you'll find some of the following types of timekillers acting in your own office:

1. The efficient housekeeper—every morning he spends cleaning out his desk, every afternoon rearranging his files. But he is never quite ready tomorrow to attack the day before yesterday's work.

2. The prowling ferret—with brows knit in agonizing thought, hands locked behind his back, stalks endlessly around the office as if in search of one single answer to all the firm's problems. His box score at nightfall: 20 trips to the water cooler, 7 to the men's room.

3. The dubious lover—this married Romeo, holding a business letter in his hand as a prop, goes from stenographer to stenographer, whispering, "Next year I'll take you to Havana, but right now how about a weekend in Philadelphia?" But if one of the girls really took him up on his proposition, he'd melt away faster than the abominable snowman.

4. The harried debtor—he rolls up his sleeves and buries himself up to his armpits in a pile of important papers on his desk. He keeps a wary eye, however, so that no one can peek over his shoulders and see that the papers consist of his personal bills, his household budget, his state and federal income tax returns, and a small pamphlet entitled,

By Hal Boyle

"Ten Easy Ways to Pay off a Home Mortgage."

5. The lonely heart—believing that two can act better than one, he goes over to the other fellow's desk and asks him nonsensical questions such as, "Do you think the light here is ruining our eyes?" or, "If you could retire right now, where would you want to live?"

6. The dull cowbird—this wretched pest doesn't have enough originality to invent his own methods of shirking work so he imitates the others. But he does it so poorly that he endangers the whole office, and everyone has a desire to poison him.

7. The daredevil—figuring that all life is merely a bold bluff, this wily gambler does not work at all. But after sitting for two hours with both feet on his desk, he strolls into the boss's office at 11 a.m., and says cheerfully, "All clear, chief, what can I do for you now?"

There they are—seven office characters in search of an audience. And in case the boss should suddenly choke to death on a martini olive during an important business luncheon, which of these seven career timekillers will get his job?

Naturally the best actor wins.

Nine out of 10 times the daredevil will become boss—if he isn't fired first.

By George Sokolsky

experience has taught the courts that often discovery will lead not to honest fact-finding, but on the contrary, to perjury and the suppression of evidence. Thus the criminal who is aware of the whole case against him will often procure perjured testimony in order to set up a false defense."

This is so true. After all, the criminal's business is to commit a crime and to get away with it. For murder, he might get a death sentence or life imprisonment, depending upon the state in which he is being tried; for perjury, he might receive five to 20 years of his life.

Mr. Justice Brennan says:

"That old bogie of perjury, invariably raised with every suggested change in procedure to make easier the discovery of the truth, is again disinterred from the grave where I had thought it was forever buried under the overwhelming weight of the complete rebuttal supplied by our experience in civil causes where liberal discovery has been allowed."

This New Jersey judge who was so soundly raised to the United States Supreme Court to fit the political requirement of the moment said:

"This anchorman's apprehension that liberal discovery if extended to criminal causes will inevitably bring the serious and sinister dangers of perjury in its wake will seem strange to many when coming from this court which has been generally commended for its aggressive sponsorship of liberal discovery and effective pre-trial procedures in civil causes and can point to the solid evidence of its benefit in results to the cause of justice without that defeat of justice through perjury foretold by the prophets of doom."

At any rate, in this 1953 decision, the justice would make it practically impossible for the prosecution to win a case even against a murderer by careful and secret preparation.

political pressure or moral suasion on an economy-bent administration.

"An equivalent exercise of presidential authority in administrative realms might be possible. Pres. Eisenhower might order a cut of 100,000 governmental employees, and such a directive might be complied with. He seems reluctant to do so and his advisors are apparently horrified at the very thought of thus testing such authority in its own household."

"The bureaucratic structure has become so huge and unwieldy that a bolder man than Mr. Eisenhower would be daunted by the prospect of engaging it in a battle of wits, will, and nerves."

Undoubtedly a fight against growing bureaucracy must be made by some one, some time, if federal costs are to be cut.

It is not a new situation and for 25 years has been getting worse.

If some President would attempt this he might fail, but eventually the public must be made to understand that to the three pronged authority of our government, executive, legislative and judicial, there has been added a fourth and a wholly unconstitutional branch, the permanent bureaucracy which nobody elects, which represents nothing but itself, and which cannot be controlled by the normal applications of authority delegated by a sovereign people.

Probably no President could be expected to like the idea of ramming his head into a stone wall. However, unless someone President is willing to do so fairly soon, in order to make an issue of that monstrous impediment to efficient and economical government, also to representative government, the time may come when the silent bureaucratic revolution will have triumphed by its own sheer, inert bulk.

If Insect Flies Into Ear

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

IT is not a funny matter when water also is used frequently to an insect flies into your ear. While wash other foreign objects such as beans and peas from the ear, about immediate action should be taken to get the bug out of the doctor usually has to use instruments.

Threatens Hearing

Removal is necessary because any foreign body may cause inflammation and discomfort and possibly impair your hearing.

There is one thing you can do to try to get the bug out yourself. Insects are attracted to light. Sometimes they can be encouraged to crawl out if you hold a bright light close to the ear.

If this fails to remove them and the buzzing is extremely annoying, the insect probably can be killed and the buzzing halted by dropping a little olive oil or mineral oil into the ear.

Then the trespassing little culprit can be removed by a doctor.

Generally the doctor will instill alcohol or oil or a volatile anesthetic and then by injecting water he can float the little creature right out.

CINCINNATI (AP)—Mayor Ralph Foster of suburban Wyoming, does not know whether his city will follow or ignore another order from state Auditor James A. Rhodes that it quit using public funds for Christmas gifts for department employees.

Wyoming has set aside a $1,000 fund to cover the cost of gifts for about 15 years. Beer and ham generally were given, it was reported, but distribution of the beverage was stopped some time ago.

Rhodes has ordered the community to stop using public funds for the gifts, declaring it was in violation of a state law.

To this Justice Brennan objected. Precisely how, in a case involving murder, would he have had the confession prepared? Would he have called in a blonde stenographer or would he have had the man arrested for murder talk into a dictating machine? The defendant said, two months later, that he could not remember what he had said in his confession. This is a little hard to believe because this is a man up for murder and one would imagine that his peril would whet his memory. But Justice Brennan believed him.

The Nation Today

WASHINGTON (AP)—If President Eisenhower had lifted a finger to fight for the federal aid to education bill, it seems certain he could have saved it. At the show-down he sat silent although he had been calling for federal aid since 1953.

The result: A majority of his Republicans did Thursday exactly what they did last year. They teamed up with Southern Democrats to kill the bill in the House. Republicans who favored the bill are sore at Eisenhower's performance.

If three Republicans had switched their votes, the bill would have been saved. The vote was 208 to kill it, 203 to save it.

Eisenhower not only didn't plug for the bill. He indirectly gave support to those who wanted to demolish it by letting it be known that, while he signed the bill if it passed, he wasn't satisfied with it.

The Republican majority tactics Thursday were like an encore of their act in 1956 when a similar bill was before the House:

First, they joined Northern Democrats in voting an antisegregation amendment into the bill—without withdrawing federal money from segregated schools—and then switched over to join Southern Democrats in killing the measure altogether.

Two of the three top Republicans in the House voted to kill the bill last year and again Thursday. They were Representatives Charles Halleck (Ind.), assistant Republican leader, and Leslie Arends (Ill.), Republican whip.

Rep. Joseph Martin (Mass.) the No. 1 Republican in the House, voted for the bill Thursday as he did in 1956.

Eisenhower, since 1953, has repeatedly called for some kind of federal aid to get schools built. He has urged action both in his State of the Union messages and in special messages to Congress. The of 1956 called for federal aid to schools.

While the bill which went before the House this year was not exactly the kind Eisenhower wanted, it was the only one which had a chance of passage this year.

This is an example of how some help from Eisenhower might have saved the bill, if it only took the form of a brief message to the House or pressure on no more than three leading House Republicans: Halleck, Arends and Edward Rees (Kan.).

While the final vote to kill the bill was 208-203, during the roll call Rees voted for the bill. Before the final tally he changed his vote to "no." Rees is a veteran of 20 years in the House.

The

Following are the votes on the antisegregation amendment and on the bill itself in 1956 and Thursday:

The antisegregation amendment:

1956—For the amendment: 148

Republicans, 77 Democrats (total, 225). Against the amendment: 46

Republicans, 146 Democrats (total, 202).

Thursday for the amendment,

130. Against, 105. Unlike the 1956 roll-call vote, Thursday's vote was a standing one which did not list the members by name.

But reporters who cover the House every day and recognize the members by sight said the lineup for the antisegregation amendment was the same as last year: Republicans and Northern Democrats.

For killing the bill:

1956—119 Republicans and 105

Democrats (total 224) voted to kill the bill. (In the House the 11 Southern states have 106 seats.)

Voting for the bill were 75 Republicans (compared with the 148 Republicans who voted for the anti-segregation amendment) and 119

Democrats (compared with 77

Eisenhower might order a cut of 100,000 governmental employees, and such a directive might be complied with. He seems reluctant to do so and his advisors are apparently horrified at the very thought of thus testing such authority in its own household."

"The bureaucratic structure has become so huge and unwieldy that a bolder man than Mr. Eisenhower would be daunted by the prospect of engaging it in a battle of wits, will, and nerves."

Undoubtedly a fight against growing bureaucracy must be made by some one, some time, if federal costs are to be cut.

It is not a new situation and for 25 years has been getting worse.

If some President would attempt this he might fail, but eventually the public must be made to understand that to the three pronged authority of our government, executive, legislative and judicial, there has been added a fourth and a wholly unconstitutional branch, the permanent bureaucracy which nobody elects, which represents nothing but itself, and which cannot be controlled by the normal applications of authority delegated by a sovereign people.

Probably no President could be expected to like the idea of ramming his head into a stone wall. However, unless someone President is willing to do so fairly soon, in order to make an issue of that monstrous impediment to efficient and economical government, also to representative government, the time may come when the silent bureaucratic revolution will have triumphed by its own sheer, inert bulk.

6. The dull cowbird—this wretched pest doesn't have enough originality to invent his own methods of shirking work, so he imitates the others. But he does it so poorly that he endangers the whole office, and everyone has a desire to poison him.

7. The daredevil—figuring that all life is merely a bold bluff, this wily gambler does not work at all. But after sitting for two hours with both feet on his desk, he strolls into the boss's office at 11 a.m., and says cheerfully, "All clear, chief, what can I do for you now?"

8. The harried debtor—he rolls up his sleeves and buries himself up to his armpits in a pile of important papers on his desk. He keeps a wary eye, however, so that no one can peek over his shoulders and see that the papers consist of his personal bills, his household budget, his state and federal income tax returns, and a small pamphlet entitled, experience has taught the courts that often discovery will lead not to honest fact-finding, but on the contrary, to perjury and the suppression of evidence. Thus the criminal who is aware of the whole case against him will often procure perjured testimony in order to set up a false defense."

This is so true. After all, the criminal's business is to commit a crime and to get away with it. For murder, he might get a death sentence or life imprisonment, depending upon the state in which he is being tried; for perjury, he gambles five to 20 years of his life.

Mr. Justice Brennan says:

"That old bogie of perjury, invariably raised with every suggested change in procedure to make easier the discovery of the truth, is again disinterred from the grave where I had thought it was forever buried under the overwhelming weight of the complete rebuttal supplied by our experience in civil causes where liberal discovery has been allowed."

This New Jersey judge who was so suddenly raised to the United States Supreme Court to fit the political requirement of the moment said:

"This anachronistic apprehension that liberal discovery if extended to criminal cases will inevitably bring the serious and sinister dangers of perjury in its wake will seem strange to many when coming from this court which has been generally recommended for its aggressive sponsorship of liberal discovery and effective pre-trial procedures in civil causes and can point to the solid evidence of its beneficial results to the cause of justice without that defeat of justice through perjury foretold by the prophets of doom."

If Insect Flies Into Ear

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

IT is not a funny matter when water also is used frequently to an insect flies into your ear. While wash other foreign objects such as beans and peas from the ear, about immediate action should be taken to get the bug out of the external auditory canal.

Threatens Hearing

Removal is necessary because any foreign body may cause inflammation and discomfort and possibly impair your hearing.

There is one thing you can do to try to get the bug out yourself. Insects are attracted to light. Sometimes they can be encouraged to crawl out if you hold a bright light close to the ear.

If this fails to remove them and the buzzing is extremely annoying, the insect probably can be killed and the buzzing halted by dropping a little olive oil or mineral oil into the ear.

Consult a doctor as soon as you can. With his instruments he will be able to clear the nose easily and quickly.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

A. D.: Is it safe to use cornstarch instead of talcum powder for the baby?

Answer: Yes; it will do no harm and works very well in certain instances.

Wyoming has set aside a $1,000 fund to cover the cost of gifts for about 15 years. Beer and hams generally were given, it was reported, but distribution of the beverage was stopped some time ago.

Rhodes has ordered the community to stop using public funds for the gifts, declaring it was in violation of a state law.

This charge is murder in the first degree, allegedly committed on Aug. 22, 1952. In the early morning hours from 12:20 a.m. to 5 a.m. of Aug. 24, in custody and without counsel and surrounded only by police officers, the accused had a conversation with detective Lieut. Neidorff during which not the accused but the lieutenant wrote down 14 pages of "narrative" which when completed the accused read aloud, had it read back to him by one of the officers, and signed.

To this Justice Brennan objected. Precisely how, in a case involving murder, would he have had the confession prepared?

Would he have called in a blonde stenographer or would he have had the man arrested for murder talk into a dictating machine? The defendant said, two months later, that he could not remember what he had said in his confession.

This is a little hard to believe because this is a man up for murder and one would imagine that his peril would whet his memory. But Justice Brennan believed him.

At any rate, in this 1953 decision, the justice would make it practically impossible for the prosecution to win a case even against a murderer by careful and secret preparation.

HAROLD ROSS - JUNIOR SATTERFIELD

The Nation Today

WASHINGTON (AP)—If President Eisenhower had lifted a finger to fight for the federal aid to education bill, it seems certain he could have saved it. At the showdown he sat silent although he had been calling for federal aid since 1953.

The result: A majority of his Republicans did Thursday exactly what they did last year. They teamed up with Southern Democrats to kill the bill in the House. Republicans who favored the bill are sore at Eisenhower's performance.

If three Republicans had switched their votes, the bill would have been saved. The vote was 208 to kill it, 203 to save it.

Eisenhower not only didn't plug for the bill. He indirectly gave support to those who wanted to demolish it by letting it be known that, while he'd sign the bill if it passed, he wasn't satisfied with it.

The Republican majority tactics Thursday were like an encore of their act in 1956 when a similar bill was before the House:

First, they joined Northern Democrats in voting an antisegregation amendment into the bill— withholding federal money from segregated schools—and then switched over to join Southern Democrats in killing the measure altogether.

Two of the three top Republicans in the House voted to kill the bill last year and again Thursday. They were Representatives Charles Halleck (Ind.), assistant Republican leader, and Leslie Arends (Ill.), Republican whip. Rep. Joseph Martin (Mass.), the No. 1 Republican in the House, assigned to the bill Thursday as he did in 1956.

Eisenhower, since 1953, has repeatedly called for some kind of federal aid to get schools built. He has urged action both in his State of the Union messages and in special messages to Congress. The of 1956 called for federal aid to schools.

While the bill which went before the House this year was not exactly the kind Eisenhower wanted, it was the only one which had a chance of passage this year.

This is an example of how some help from Eisenhower might have saved the bill, if it only took the form of a brief message to the House or pressure on no more than three leading House Republicans: Halleck, Arends and Rep. Edward Rees (Kan.).

While the final vote to kill the bill was 208-203, during the roll call Rees voted for the bill. Before the final tally he changed his vote to "no." Rees is a veteran of 20 years in the House.

Following are the votes on the antisegregation amendment and on the bill itself in 1956 and Thursday:

The antisegregation amendment:

1956—For the amendment: 148 Republicans, 77 Democrats (total, 225). Against the amendment: 46 Republicans, 146 Democrats (total, 192).

Thursday for the amendment, 136. Against, 105. Unlike the 1956 roll-call vote, Thursday's vote was a standing one which did not list the members by name.

But reporters who cover the House every day and recognize the members by sight said the lineup for the antisegregation amendment was the same as last year: Republicans and Northern Democrats.

For killing the bill:

1956—119 Republicans and 105 Democrats (total 224) voted to kill the bill. (In the House the 11 Southern states have 106 seats.)

Voting for the bill were 75 Republicans (compared with the 148 Republicans who voted for the antisegregation amendment) and 119 Democrats (compared with 77 Democrats who voted for the amendment).

Thursday—111 Republicans and 97 Democrats (87 of whom were from the South)—for a total of 208 voted to kill the bill. Voting to save it were 77 Republicans and 126 Democrats (total, 203).

Country Music Popularity Up

By CHARLES MERCER
NEW YORK (AP)—A big development in entertainment recently is the widespread popularity of country music.

Word comes that Jimmy Dean's country music show, which moved into an important Saturday night slot for the summer on CBS-TV will remain there next season.

CBS Radio recently launched a new "Country Music Show" on Friday evenings. NBC Radio presents
"Grand Ole Opry" Saturday evenings.

ABC-TV is offering two country music shows: "Midwest Hayride"

on Sunday evenings and "Country Music Jubilee" on Saturday evenings.

Cash Box, trade publication for the juke box industry, lists eight country music numbers among its latest top 35 most popular music box tunes. The Cash Box top 60 tunes, compiled from retail sales, lists even more.

What is country music and what is the source of its popularity?

Mike Foster of ABC-TV came up with a good description the other day:

"Country music is the only current form of folk music which from the beginnings of this country was the most important form of expression and communication.
It was the means by which people could speak of the work they did, the things and places and people they loved, the needs they felt."

"Country music carries on this tradition. The unknown folk composers of yesterday have become the country music composers of today. In country music it is the song rather than the composition that reaches the people."

Missile Curbs Threatening Arms Parley

LONDON — Space missiles loomed today as another major barrier to agreement in the U. S. disarmament talks.

East and West appeared to be split again over how to insure that objects sent flying off into outer space are not on war missions.

Harold E. Stassen, U. S. delegate to the five-nation disarmament subcommittee, proposed Thursday that a scientific committee be set up to work out ways to see that all research on outer-space missiles is confined to peaceful purposes. He said the committee should start work within three months of the signing of a first-stage disarmament pact.

Soviet Delegate Valerian Zorin did not immediately accept or reject the proposal. He said it would be studied. But Zorin in the past has consistently rebuffed suggestions that disarmament study committees be set up and has demanded instead that the West agree to Soviet proposals for halting all nuclear weapon tests immediately for a two- or three-year period.

Zorin similarly proposed on April 30 that all nuclear powers renounce forever both the use of nuclear weapons and guided missiles of all ranges capable of carrying nuclear warheads.

So seldom can you do all you'd really wish to do for grief-stricken friends, or find exactly the right words for your sympathy. But you can always send flowers, with confidence that they will faithfully express both your wishes and your feeling. You can count on flowers to carry your message with perfect tact. You can count on us to advise a fitting selection, and to handle all details with perfect taste.

than you have. Rather it is a case of needing to get on with living, to stretch and grow into further patterns of usefulness, in order to stay alive, really alive—with a sense of direction and purpose opening out.

In the years of child bearing and child rearing, now behind you with sons and daughters grown, you were naturally well occupied within the boundaries of the family circle. Your mind, hands and time were fully taken up, living this chapter of married life to the hilt. But that season of effort is on the wane—or possibly finished, some while back.

Bill is a fine looking man, personally immaculate, an enchanting companion, one of the good people of the world—he knows no other way to be. He has been a faithful husband and wonderful lover and thinks I am very beautiful.

Our sons, now grown, emulate their father and love and respect him. He has never lifted his voice or hand to them—his steady kindness their only discipline. Our two beautiful daughters, one now happily married, look up to him as flowers to the sun. His friends are legion.

But there is a problem. Ours is a feudal marriage. Bill disapproves of a wife's working outside the home, or belonging to clubs—anything that would take me from his side for a minute. He will take me any place of my choice, so I do get out. But I would like to belong to more community affairs—though I doubt he would join in even with me.

Should I make an issue of this? Bill comes of a broken home, his father a drinking man, his mother very social, with no time for her household—but numerous lady friends. I was born in a theatrical atmosphere, father a producer, mother and sister performers—people swarming in and out, feast or famine. I always wanted security, which I now have. Should I want more? Or am I just being foolish?

To continue in the old routine, when its function belongs to past history, is to begin a process of shrivelling, insensibly.

Therefore if your husband will indeed take you any place you say, it behooves you to lead out of the rut you're in—by making a list of available group activities that might prove congenial, and having a look at them, one by one, in his company.

I don't know what opportunities your environment offers, but some or all of the following, probably: church work, settlement house work and party political plugging (in campaign years). Also, lecture courses, adult education classes (university sponsored), and good old-fashioned party-giving—such as asking friends to dinners, suppers, Sunday luncheons, etc., and establishing a reciprocal exchange of this sort.

Hat Gives Role To TV Player

Sgt. Bilko Stooge Gets Hollywood Break

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Joe E. Ross is headed for a bigtime movie career because of a hat.

The name Joe E. Ross may not mean much in Dubuque, Iowa, or Snow Shoe, Pa., unless you identify him as Mess Sgt. Rupert Ritzik, the No. 1 pigeon of Sgt. Bilko on the Phil Silvers' TV show.

Ross, a character right out of Damon Runyon, just completed his first movie in Hollywood. He's costarred with Hal March and Merry Anders in "Hear Me Good," a comedy written, produced and directed by Don McGuire. Here's where the hat comes in.

"Paramount wanted Art Carney to do the part," Ross explains, "but McGuire wanted me. McGuire argued that Carney isn't funny without a hat on. Paramount argued that I always wore a hat on the Bilko show so how could I be funny without one."

The part, of course, doesn't require funny hats so to settle the argument, McGuire and the Paramount brass decided to watch the next Bilko show.

"Just by luck," says Ross, "it was the show where my wife threatens to leave me if I don't quit losing bets to Bilko. Most of it was shown in our quarters and I had no hat on. I got the part. Isn't that funny how a little thing like that could determine a break in a career?"

Ross scored in "Hear Me Good" and now Paramount wants him back to play Yul Brynner's comedy sidekick in "The Buccaneer." It's a role which is all through the picture.

300 Teachers Learn Aviation At Ohio School

OXFORD, Ohio (AP)—The kids have forced their school teachers to learn about aviation, and some 300 teachers from 42 states, Alaska, Hawaii, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands were here today doing something about it.

"It was getting a little rough when my kindergarten pupils knew more about airplanes than I did," said one of the teachers. They are learning about them at the National Aviation Education Workshop being held at Miami University.

"Last year, I supervised a hobby group of boys between the ages of 10 and 12," Miss Ann Horner, 23, Minneapolis, Minn., told a reporter. "When they found out I didn't know anything about aviation, they were all shook up."

The workshop here, under sponsorship of the Civil Air Patrol, is intended to give the teachers enough knowledge about flying to talk on the same level with their students.

Although the six-hour credit course offers all phases of aviation, Miami University officials were amazed when 150 of the teachers signed immediately for actual flying training.

Five light planes were obtained and a schedule of flight instruction, starting at 4 a.m., has begun. It last until darkness. Instructors believe they will be able to teach 75 of their students to fly before the course ends.

Three of the teachers have soloed already.

Mrs. Minnie Flippin, a teacher from Coleman, Tex., however, topped all the others in enthusiasm for the "wild blue yonder." She took the $2,000 she had saved for an automobile, and plunked it down for a used plane.

HST Autographing No $1 Bills Now

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP)—Former President Harry S. Truman has sworn off one of his favorite habits—autographing $1 bills.

A visitor to Truman Memorial Library asked him Thursday for one of the autographs.

"I hadn't better," he said.

"Why?" asked an old friend.

"You can't deface currency," he said. "That's the law. The attorney general would just love to put me in jail."

The former President was asked if he had been cautioned officially about it.

"Oh, no," he said.

In his excitement in getting his wife to the hospital to have the baby Wednesday night, Parnell saw what he thought was a door and walked right through it. The "door" turned out to be a plate glass window.

Special Message from Ike Now Going with Passports

WASHINGTON (AP)—Americans traveling abroad soon will get with their passports a letter from President Eisenhower asking them to serve as ambassadors of the United States as a friendly nation "dedicated to the search for world peace."

The White House said today that starting soon after Aug. 1 a copy of the presidential letter will be enclosed with every passport. A similar presidential message will be distributed to the armed forces overseas.

The Eisenhower letter to be distributed with civilian passports read:

"Dear fellow citizen:

"You have been issued a valued credential—the passport of the United States. It requests that, in the countries you intend to visit, there be provided you as an American citizen safe passage, lawful aid and protection in case of need. As a holder of this passport, you will be the guest of neighbors and friends in the world family of nations.

"Year after year, increasing numbers of our citizens travel to foreign countries. In most of these lands there exist a reservoir of good will for the United States and a knowledge of what we stand for. In some areas, our country and its aspirations are more well understood. To all the varied peoples of these many countries, you, the bearer of an American passport, represent the United States of America.

"As you travel abroad, the respect you show for foreign laws and customs, your courteous regard for other ways of life, and your speech and manner help to mold the reputation of our country.

Thus, you represent us all in bringing assurance to the people you meet that the United States is a friendly nation and one dedicated to the search for world peace and to the promotion of the well-being and security of the community of nations.

"Sincerely, Dwight D. Eisenhower."

The White House said the letter was intended to carry out the spirit of the "people-to-people" campaign undertaken by private organizations with government encouragement to foster friendly contacts between Americans and the people of foreign countries which they visit.

People . . . Places . . . and Things
Round about Fayette County

By B. E. KELLEY

Around 1900, when automobiles were still more or less in the dream stage and no one envisioned what the gasoline motor was going to do for traffic and farm work, and the human family generally, special trains were run on the four railroads touching this city, during the big days of the Fayette County Fair.

Special round-trip rates were made and the trains started at Chillicothe, Circleville, Xenia, Wilmington, Springfield, Columbus, and Bainbridge, and invariably they were filled to capacity.

These special trains were run in addition to the regular trains, and brought in several thousand people who packed the Fairground to capacity.

It was about the turn of the century that the shuttle train on the Pennsylvania Railroad operated between the station here and the Fairground.

A few days ago I received (for The Fayette County Historical Society) two tickets for this shuttle train trip, from Harold Craig, who in 1948 received them from Harry R. Rodecker, former ticket agent at the C&MV office here. Rodecker said he had sold hundreds of the tickets each day when the train was operating.

Both tickets are stamped Aug. 16, 1900. One is numbered 95 and the other 96, and they read "The Cincinnati and Muskingum Valley RR Co. Special ticket, good for one continuous pass a g.e. Fairgrounds to Washington C. H. O., only on date stamped on back by selling agent."

The old tickets are valuable additions to the great number of out-of-the-ordinary historic things being assembled for the historical society to be placed in the forthcoming Fayette County museum.

KNOW ABOUT GOATSVILLE?

Did you ever hear of Goatsville in Fayette County?

Well, that was the first name for Buena Vista, and Buena Vista (or beautiful view) was also later known as Moons, the post office name since there is a Buena Vista in Scioto County. Incidentally Buena Vista in Scioto County is just across the river from Buena Vista, Ky.

But to get back to "Goatsville." It was 125 years ago, or in 1832, that John W. Simpson and Stephen Tudor purchased land and located in what is now Buena Vista. Simpson bought a lot from Jeffrey Higgins.

Simpson went back to Highland County, married there, and with his wife returned to his new purchase, erected a log cabin on the west side of the road about opposite the recently abandoned Methodist Church. The Simpsons were the first married couple to settle in what was later to be Buena Vista.

While some of the residents of the Buena Vista community claim that Simpson kept a herd of goats and the town got its name "Goatsville," from that, history records that it was the name of a goat that was lost in the valley.

Charles Holt, 16, was smothered to death in a wheat bin in the East Monroe elevator.

Corn crop in county worth $350,000 was looming.

During two year period county had expended $133,473 on road work with WPA labor.

Crop control program brought $75,000 into Fayette County for farmers participating.

Albino squirrel was making a home in southern part of city.

Threshers on Worthington land in Rattlesnake valley killed 20 prairie rattlesnakes in 25 acre field.

Rural Electrification Administration had erected 200 miles of lines in southern Fayette, Highland, Clinton and Adams counties.

Temperature drop to 48 degrees is one of the lowest on record for late July.

Wanted: Way To Halt Dollar From Shrinking

5 Cents of Purchasing Power Reported Lost In Last 16 Months

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP) — The textile industry has learned how to stop shrinking of clothing. Millions of Americans wish someone could learn the knack of stopping the shrinkage of the dollar.

It has lost five cents of its purchasing power in the last 16 months. Compared with 1940 it is worth only about half as much at the store or in buying the many services which play an important part in today's way of living.

One solution for the problem of the personal budget that has been tried increasingly in recent years is to tie wage scales to the surprising cost of living. About four million workers are affected now.

One of the reasons the federal government spent more money in the fiscal year recently ended than it had expected to is that the cost of the things it buys and the pay of the workers it hires had gone up since the budget was drawn.

Shrinkage in the buying power of the currency isn't just the problem of the United States. Rising living costs have shrivelled the power of the currencies of most other nations.

Even the Canadian dollar has lost three cents in purchasing power in Canada — although it costs you five to six cents more if you want to get a Canadian dollar for your American dollar.

Consumer prices took one of their biggest jumps in months. The Bureau says they have climbed again in this month. Biggest culprit was the price of food. And drought in the Northeast and floods in other sections imperil the hoped-for downtown in food prices next month.

Services charges have been rising almost steadily for several years. New price increases are predicted for a number of consumer items as a result of the hike in steel prices this month and the expected boost in aluminum prices next month.

The consumer price index now stands at 120.2. This means that the dollar's purchasing power has shrunk about 20 per cent since the 1947-49 base period.

The family budget is the first to suffer. Hardest hit are those whose pay scales aren't tied to the price index, and particularly, those who are trying to get along on fixed incomes, such as pensions.

But the shrinkage of the dollar hits industry, too. The cost of replacing a steel mill, for example, has soared since the war.

Because of the shrinking dollar it costs more to rebuild inventories, rattle snakes in 25 acre field.

Rural Electrification Administration had erected 200 miles of lines in southern Fayette, Highland, Clinton and Adams counties.

Temperature drop to 48 degrees is one of the lowest on record for late July.

Nobody Wants 'Marilyn Monroe'

TOLEDO (AP) — Would anyone like to provide a home for "Marilyn Monroe?" So far, Jimmie Stewart hasn't even been able to give her away.

Jimmie's Marilyn, you see, is a rhinoceros.

The actor recently was persuaded to buy a one-fifth interest in the rhino, a native of the Belgian Congo now in temporary residence in Fort Worth, Texas.

In Toledo, Stewart offered the animal to Mayor Ollie Czelusta for the Toledo Zoo. His honor called zoo Superintendent Phil Skeldon, but was told that the zoo already has a male rhino and no room for another.

ries. Because the dollar buys fewer materials and less labor the profit margins of many businesses are shrivelling, too.

And since June's osf of living jump means pay hikes for 650,000 workers, the squeeze on profit margins will be that much tighter for the companies who hire them.

One of the reasons the federal government spent more money in the fiscal year recently ended than it had expected to is that the cost of the things it buys and the pay of the workers it hires had gone up since the budget was drawn.

Shrinkage in the buying power of the currency isn't just the problem of the United States. Rising living costs have shrivelled the power of the currencies of most other nations.

Pensioners In Clinics To Be Checked

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A state welfare department official said today Ohio hospitals will be checked closely to obtain early release of old age pensioners reaching the convalescent stage.

To prevent curtailment of medical services, Minor asserted physicians would "police" the hospitals to see that patients were dismissed as soon as possible. He promised that patients would not be discharged until they reach the convalescent stage.

Pensioners needing convalescent care will be placed in rest homes which receive $150 a month maximum from the state, he said.

Department store sales in December are normally twice as high as the monthly average for the rest of the year in the United States.

Round about Fayette County

By B. E. KELLEY

Around 1900, when automobiles were still more or less in the dream stage and no one envisioned what the gasoline motor was going to do for traffic and farm work, and the human family generally, special trains were run on the four railroads touching this city, during the big days of the Fayette County Fair.

Special round-trip rates were made and the trains started at Chillicothe, Circleville, Xenia, Wilmington, Springfield, Columbus, and Bainbridge, and invariably they were filled to capacity.

These special trains were run in addition to the regular trains, and brought in several thousand people who packed the Fairground to capacity.

It was about the turn of the century that the shuttle train on the Pennsylvania Railroad operated between the station here and the Fairground.

A few days ago I received (for The Fayette County Historical Society) two tickets for this shuttle train trip, from Harold Craig, who in 1948 received them from Harry R. Rodecker, former ticket agent at the C&MV office here. Rodecker said he had sold hundreds of the tickets each day when the train was operating.

Both tickets are stamped Aug. 16, 1900. One is numbered 95 and the other 96, and they read: "The Cincinnati and Muskingum Valley RR. Co. Special ticket, good for one continuous pass a g e, Fairgrounds to Washington C. H., O., only on date stamped on back by selling agent."

The old tickets are valuable additions to the great number of out-of-the-ordinary historic things being assembled for the historical society to be placed in the forthcoming Fayette County museum.

KNOW ABOUT GOATSVILLE?

Did you ever hear of Goatsville in Fayette County?

Well, that was the first name for Buena Vista, and Buena Vista (or beautiful view) was also later known as Moons, the post office name since there is a Buena Vista in Scioto County. Incidentally Buena Vista in Scioto County is just across the river from Buena Vista, Ky.

But to get back to "Goatsville." It was 125 years ago, or in 1832, that John W. Simpson and Stephen Tudor purchased land and located in what is now Buena Vista. Simpson bought a lot from Jeffrey Higgins.

Simpson went back to Highland County, married there, and with his wife returned to his new purchase, erected a log cabin on the west side of the road about opposite the recently abandoned Methodist Church. The Simpsons were the first married couple to settle in what was later to be Buena Vista.

While some of the residents of the Buena Vista community claim that Simpson kept a herd of goats and the town got its name "Goatsville" from that, history records that a Simpson was a member of the German Baptist Society which was usually known by the name of Dunkards.

Preachers and members of the organization were in the habit of stopping at the Simpson home, and as they allowed their hair and beards to grow quite long, it was considered that they bore a striking resemblance to goats, and the village was given the name of "Goatville."

This name hung to the town for nearly a century, and a few people still laughingly refer to Buena Vista as "Goatville."

Buena Vista was named from a town of the same name in Virginia, the name being suggested by settlers from Rockbridge County, Virginia.

It is a lovely name and certainly smells better— I mean sounds better, than "Goatville."

THEY LIKE HOT WEATHER

All of you have heard the loud hollow notes of the snowy tree crickets during the hours of darkness, from June until the first frost arrives.

Right now these night "fiddlers" are sending forth their stridulating noises from soon after darkness until early morning, working their musical equipment overtime.

During hot nights these crickets, which are about one inch in length, slender, with gauzy wings and are very light in color, step up their notes. During cool nights their notes are much slower.

For instance about 10 o'clock Monday night before the cool, refreshing breezes came down from the north followed by rain, I counted the notes sent forth by one of the snowy tree crickets, and was surprised to find he was fading away at 180 notes a minute.

I have heard them on cool nights when the number of calls sent forth was less than one every second.

If you wish to inspect one of these insects hunt him out with a flashlight, and watch him strut his stuff. Apparently the flashlight does not disturb him in the least, for he goes right on fiddling.

Wanted: Way To Halt Dollar From Shrinking

5 Cents of Purchasing Power Reported Lost In Last 16 Months

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—The textile industry has learned how to stop shrinking of clothing. Millions of Americans wish someone could learn the knack of stopping the shrinkage of the dollar.

It has lost five cents of its purchasing power in the last 16 months. Compared with 1940 it is worth only about half as much at the store or in buying the many services which play an increasing part in today's way of living.

One solution for the problem of the personal budget that has been tried increasingly in recent years has been to tie wage scales to the surprising cost of living. About four million workers are affected now.

Of late this has seemed to be more of a see-saw than a solution. For a time this spring the worker was on the low end of the plank. The cost of living was rising faster than his take-home pay. In June the factory worker got the first break in months, the Bureau of Labor Statistics reports. The weekly pay after taxes for the average factory worker rose 65 cents to $75.13. This was just a shade more than the cost of living rose in June.

Consumer prices took one of their biggest jumps in months. The Bureau says they have climbed again in this month. Biggest culprit was the price of food. And drought in the Northeast and floods in other sections imperil the hoped-for downtown in food prices next month.

Services charges have been rising almost steadily for several years. New price increases are predicted for a number of consumer items as a result of the hike in steel prices this month and the expected boost in aluminum prices next month.

The consumer price index now stands at 120.2. This means that the dollar's purchasing power has shrunk about 20 per cent since the 1947-49 base period.

The family budget is the first to suffer. Hardest hit are those whose pay scales aren't tied to the price index and, particularly, those who are trying to get along on fixed incomes, such as pensioners.

But the shrinkage of the dollar hits industry, too. The cost of replacing a steel mill, for example, has soared since the war.

Because of the shrinking dollar it costs more to rebuild inventories rattlesnakes in 25 acre field.

Nobody Wants 'Marilyn Monroe'

TOLEDO (AP)—Would anyone like to provide a home for "Marilyn Monroe?" So far, Jimmie Stewart hasn't even been able to give her away.

Jimmie's Marilyn, you see, is a rhinoceros.

The actor recently was persuaded to buy a one-fifth interest in the rhino, a native of the Belgian Congo now in temporary residence in Fort Worth, Texas.

In Toledo, Stewart offered the animal to Mayor Ollie Czelusta for the Toledo Zoo. His honor called zoo Superintendent Phil Skeldon, but was told that the zoo already has a female rhino and no room for another.

ries. Because the dollar buys fewer materials and less labor the profit margins of many businesses are shriveling, too.

And since June's os of living jump means pay hikes for 650,000 workers, the squeeze on profit margins will be that much tighter for the companies who hire them.

One of the reasons the federal government spent more money in the fiscal year recently ended than it had expected to is that the cost of the things it buys and the pay of the workers it hires had gone up since the budget was drawn.

Shrinkage in the buying power of the currency isn't just the problem of the United States. Rising living costs have shrivelled the buying power of the currencies of most other nations.

Even the Canadian dollar has lost three cents in purchasing power in Canada — although it costs you five to six cents more if you want to get a Canadian dollar for your American dollar.

Pensioners In Clinics To Be Checked

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A state welfare department official said today Ohio hospitals will be checked closely to obtain early release of old age pensioners reaching the convalescent stage.

To prevent curtailment of medical services, Minor asserted physicians would have to accept less payment than formerly for medical care. Hospitals also have been advised they will be paid at the regular contract rate for 10 days instead of 15 as before.

Thomas D. Weiler, Division of Aid for the Aged chief, said his aides would "police" the hospitals to see that patients were dismissed as soon as possible. He promised that patients would not be discharged until they reach the convalescent stage.

Pensioners needing convalescent care will be placed in rest homes which receive $150 a month maximum from the state, he said.

Department store sales in December are normally twice as high as the monthly average for the rest of the year in the United States.

Pennsy Curfew Keeping Cards Out of First

Unfinished Philly Tilt Would Probably Boost St. Louis Over Braves

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Curfews are okay for keepin' the kids off the streets, but the Sunday baseball one in Pennsylvania is keeping the St. Louis Cardinals out of first place in that National League scramble.

As is, the Cards are second, three percentage points and half a game behind Milwaukee. They slipped past Brooklyn's Dodgers 3-2 Thursday night after the Braves were beaten 5-3 by Philadelphia.

But if the Red Birds, finally fatigued up at home, could count Sunday's second game at Pittsburgh—which they led 11-2 in the ninth inning when the 6 p.m. curfew sounded—they'd be out front by two percentage points. (They complete that game Aug. 27.)

After taking two of three from the Dodgers, the Cards are a game ahead of both Milwaukee and Brooklyn on the "lost" side. The Brooks, now third, are just one point ahead of Cincinnati's Redlegs, who whipped Pittsburgh 9-1 Thursday night. The Phils are 2½ back in fifth.

Sixth-place New York defeated Chicago's Cubs 5-2 in the other NL game, with Mike McCormick, the $65,000 bonus kid, winning his first in the majors.

In the American League, Dick Donovan four-hits New York for a 6-2 victory as the Chicago White Sox again moved within 3½ games of the first-place Yankees. Boston swept the three-game set with Kansas City 5-3; Washington nipped Cleveland 3-2 in 10 innings, and Baltimore split Detroit 3-3.

The Cardinals laid the wood to Don Newcombe again to break a 2-2 tie in the eighth on singles by Al Dark and Stan Musial and a sacrifice fly by Wally Moon.

Right-hander Herm Wehmeier also ended a jinx while limiting the Dodgers to six hits, striking out six and walking three for a 4-4 record.

The Phillies, winning only three of the last 10, took two of three at Milwaukee as Robin Roberts shook off his worst slump ever—a string of seven losses since June 6. Hank Aaron belted his 30th home run, on Robin's 29th gopher ball of the year, and Red Schoendienst extended his hit streak to 22 games with an RBI single for the Braves, who had a run home and two on with two out when Dick Farrell relieved Roberts in the ninth. Ed Bouchee drove in three runs to help beat Warren Spahn, now 10-8.

Art Fowler gained a 2-0 record with a seven-hitter for the Redlegs. The veteran right-hander also singled for two runs in the second against loser Ron Kline. Ed Bailey and Gus Bell homered in Cincinnati's 11-hit total.

The White Sox took the rubber game in the big set at Yankee Stadium with eight hits, two by Jim Landis, who singled to lead off a two-run sixth that beat Bob Shantz.

Douglas hit his first home run of the season to cap his 10th victory. He had a one-hit shutout until the seventh.

Bob Porterfield won his second with a six-hitter against the A's and Tom Gorman in his first complete game since July 17, 1956—when he beat the A's and Gorman 1-0. The Sox scored four in the second to nail it.

The Senators beat Mike Garcia for the first time since Aug. 28, 1955, when Ed Fitzgerald lined a pinch RBI single off reliever Bud Daley. Russ Kemmerer won his third in a row.

Craig Johnson finished with a five-hitter against the Tigers, who had only two safeties for eight frames. Gus Triandos drove in three Oriole runs as Frank Lary, last year's top AL winner at 21-13, lost his sixth in a row for a 4-13 record.

McCormick, an 18-year-old southpaw whose only other decision was a 1956 defeat by St. Louis struck out seven, walked three and allowed only one earned run on six hits before Marv Grissom came on to get the last two. Cubs' Moe Drabowsky lost it.

Argentine Favored To Defeat Cuban

WASHINGTON (P)—Alex Miteff, the undefeated Argentine, is an 8-5 favorite to defeat Cuban Julio Mederos in their 10-round televised heavyweight fight here tonight.

Miteff gained support on the basis of his knockout record alone. He has won all 10 of his previous fights, five of them by knockouts.

Mederos has a huge edge in experience, and faces the 22-year-old former Pan-American Games champ with know-how acquired in 40 pro bouts.

Long Shots Again Add Spice to Sport

Stretch Drives, Close Finishes Mark Thursday Races at Fair

DUEL ON HOME STRETCH—Hera Harmony, with Frank Lanum at the reins, charges down the stretch, to beat Mr. Arthur, driven by William Haworth, by a nose in the first dash of the second division of the 30 class pace at the Fair here Thursday afternoon. The positions were reversed in the second dash. (Record-Herald photo)

High-lining stretch drives, close finishes and full fields marked the second day of harness horse racing at the Fair here Wednesday.

Although the time in none of the eight dashes threatened the track records for either trotters or pacers, the balance of fields and the keen competition overshadowed them.

To add spice to the afternoon's racing, there was at least one long shot in the mutual betting in every race.

While the grandstand was not quite filled and the crowd did not come up to expectations, followers of the sport lined the fence two and three deep half way around the track. What it may have lacked in numbers, it made up with enthusiasm, expressed loudly vocalily.

Two of the four races were decided in straight dashes, but the honors were well spread in the other two.

ANN WAVERLY, a chestnut filly out of the consistent race mare, Waverly Ann, came fast through the stretch to nose out Miss Times, owned and driven by Harold Laymon of Washington C. H., to take the first dash of the $1,000 OCRA stake for 2-year-old pacers in 2:12 flat. Ann Waverly, owned by McKinley Kirk of Washington C. H. and the Vallery Brothers of Waverly, was driven by Wendell Kirk of Washington C. H.

Despite her breeding, Ann Waverly paid $12 to win, $6 to place and $10.40 to show. Miss Times, overlooked in the betting, paid $11 to place.

Miss Berry, a roan filly owned by Richard and Joe Asher of New Holland and driven by Forrest Short, finished last in the first dash, but went to the front in the second and won it easily. She was out of contention in the first dash after breaking at the start. She paid only $4.80 to win, but Newtow Pearl, who finished sixth in the first dash, paid $10 to place.

The Moore's Dream House trophy went to McCrea, because Hera Harmony had the faster time.

HIGH KING, owned by M. J. Baker of Arcanum, was the class of the 26 class trot, which he won in straight dashes in 2:09 and 2:09.1, the best time of the meeting to date.

He was sent to the top in the first dash and stayed all the way and did a repeat performance in the second dash, one notch better than Miss Berry's ninth in the first dash.

THE 18-HORSE entry in the 30 class pace led to splitting the field in the mutuals of Mamie Song.

Solon Now Sure Pro Sports Need Antitrust Controls

WASHINGTON (P)—Rep. Celler (D-N.Y.) said today a House investigation has convinced him the business side of professional sports "certainly must" be placed under antitrust laws.

Celler heads the House Antitrust subcommittee, which is inquiring into the legal status of major league baseball, football, basketball and ice hockey.

Hearings, now in the football stage, recessed Thursday after a group of past and present grid greats testified that pro football's player draft is essential to the sport.

The subcommittee plans to hear from other players and President George Halas of the Chicago Bears after the inquiry resumes next Wednesday. Commissioner Bert Bell of the National Football League also will be called back for additional testimony.

Baseball witnesses already have appeared before the subcommittee. Celler said they had exhibited more of a "holier than thou" attitude than NFL spokesmen.

The long-time representative from Brooklyn reacted indignantly to a statement by a co-owner Dan Topping of the New York Yankees that no other American League team could move into New York.

If the New York Giants and Brooklyn Dodgers take their National League franchises to the West Coast, New York would be left with one club—the Yanks.

Celler said that situation would be "barbarous." He said Topping's statement reflects a "materialistic" attitude that makes it "imperative" to provide antitrust laws to cover the business side of baseball.

Redlegs Set For 3 Games With Dodgers

CINCINNATI (P)—The Cincinnati Redlegs today are only a game out of first place but the third spot in the National League standing is of immediate concern as the Brooklyn Dodgers move in for a three-game series.

The Dodgers, beaten by St. Louis Thursday night, will be one percentage point ahead of the series here becomes all-important.

Manager Birdie Tebbetts, profiting from two consecutive complete game pitching performances by Joe Nuxhall and Art Fowler, will have a well rested pitching staff ready for the Dodgers. Hal Jeffcoat is due to pitch tonight against young Danny McDevitt.

Manager Birdie Tebbetts, profiting from two consecutive complete game pitching performances by Joe Nuxhall and Art Fowler, will have a well rested pitching staff ready for the Dodgers. Hal Jeffcoat is due to pitch tonight against young Danny McDevitt.

Friday night's game with Pittsburgh was a breeze as Fowler, only recently elevated to the role of a starting pitcher, went the full route for the first time and held the Bucks to seven hits.

Only in the eighth was he in any serious trouble and he got out of that after the first three men up had singled for Pittsburgh's only run. The 34-year-old right-hander also helped his own cause by knocking in the Reds' first two runs with a single in the second after two walks and a single by Don Hoak had loaded the bases.

After that, Fowler's mates pitched in to give him more runs as a cushion. Ed Bailey got a two-run homer in the fifth and Gus Bell got a circuit blow in the eighth.

INCIDENTALLY, neither of them stayed on top to the finish of the 72-hole tournament that year. Neither is entered in this year's event continuing through Sunday.

Those among the field remaining closest in sight of Bolt for the second 18 holes included Don Fairfield of Casey, Ill., with a 67 and Pat Schwab of Dayton, Ohio, Doug Ford of Mahopac, N. Y., Billy Casper of Bonita, Calif., and Wesley Ellis of Riverdale, N. J., all with 69.

Another seven, of which Jay Herbert of Sanford, Fla., was the best known, were at 70.

Pennsy Curfew Keeping Cards Out of First

Unfinished Philly Tilt Would Probably Boost St. Louis Over Braves

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Curfews are okay for keepin' the kids off the streets, but the Sunday baseball one in Pennsylvania is keeping the St. Louis Cardinals out of first place in that National League scramble.

As is, the Cards are second, three percentage points and half a game behind Milwaukee. They slipped past Brooklyn's Dodgers 3-2 Thursday night after the Braves were beaten 5-3 by Philadelphia.

But if the Red Birds, finally fattening up at home, could count Sunday's second game at Pittsburgh—which they led 11-2 in the ninth inning when the 6 p.m. curfew sounded—they'd be out front by two percentage points. (They complete that game Aug. 27.)

After taking two of three from the Dodgers, the Cards are a game ahead of both Milwaukee and Brooklyn on the "lost" side. The Brooks, now third, are just one point ahead of Cincinnati's Redlegs, who whipped Pittsburgh 9-1 Thursday night. The Phils are 2½ back in fifth.

Sixth-place New York defeated Chicago's Cubs 5-2 in the other NL game, with Mike McCormick, the $65,000 bonus kid, winning his first in the majors.

In the American League, Dick Donovan four-hit New York for a 6-2 victory as the Chicago White Sox again moved within 3½ games of the first-place Yankees. Boston swept the three-game set with Kansas City 5-3, Washington nipped Cleveland 3-2 in 10 innings, and Baltimore spilled Detroit 3-0.

The Cardinals laid the wood to Don Newcombe again to break a 2-2 tie in the eighth on singles by Al Dark and Stan Musial and a sacrifice fly by Wally Moon.

Right-hander Herm Wehmeyer also ended a jinx while limiting the Dodgers to six hits, striking out six and walking three for a 4-4 record.

The Phillies, winning only three of the last 10, took two of three at Milwaukee as Robin Roberts shook off his worst slump ever—a string of seven losses since June 6. Hank Aaron belted his 20th home run, or Robin's 29th gopher ball of the year, and Red Schoendienst extended his hit streak to 22 games with an RBI single for the Braves, who had a run home and two on with two out when Dick Farrell relieved Roberts in the ninth. Ed Bouchee drove in three runs to help beat Warren Spahn, now 10-8.

Art Fowler gained a 2-0 record with a seven-hitter for the Redlegs. The veteran right-hander also singled for two runs in the second against loser Ron Kline. Ed Bailey and Gus Bell homered in Cincinnati's 11-hit total.

The White Sox took the rubber game in the big set at Yankee Stadium with eight hits, two by Jim Landis, who singled to lead off a two-run sixth that beat Bobby Shantz.

Donovan hit his first home run of the season to cap his 10th victory. He had a one-hit shutout until the seventh.

Bob Porterfield won his second with a six-hitter against the A's and Tom Gorman in his first complete game since July 17, 1956—when he beat the A's and Gorman 1-0. The Sox scored four in the second to nail it.

The Senators beat Mike Garcia for the first time since Aug. 28, 1955, when Ed Fitzgerald lined a pinch RBI single off reliever Bud Daley. Russ Kemmerer won his third in a row for a 4-13 record.

Connie Johnson finished with a five-hitter against the Tigers, who had only two safeties for eight frames. Gus Triandis drove in three Oriole runs as Frank Lary, last year's top AL winner at 21-13, lost his sixth in a row for a 4-13 record.

McCormick, an 18-year-old southpaw whose only other decision was a 1956 defeat by St. Louis struck out seven, walked three and allowed only one earned run on six hits before Marv Grissom came on to get the last two. Moe Drabowsky lost it.

Argentine Favored To Defeat Cuban

WASHINGTON (P)—Alex Miteff, the undefeated Argentine, is an 8-5 favorite to defeat Cuban Julio Mederos in their 10-round televised heavyweight fight here tonight.

Miteff gained support on the basis of his knockout record alone. He has won all 10 of his previous fights, five of them by knockouts.

Mederos has a huge edge in experience, and faces the 22-year-old former Pan-American Games champ with know-how acquired in 40 pro bouts.

Race Fan Bets $22,000 On Show Finish, Wins

VERNON, N. Y. (P)—A harness racing fan bet $22,000 to show on Torpid at Vernon Downs Thursday night. He got the money back plus a profit of $1,100 after Torpid won and paid $2.60, $2.40 and $2.10.

The identity of the bettor was not disclosed by the track official who revealed the big show wager.

Stretch Drives, Close Finishes Mark Thursday Races at Fair

DUEL ON HOME STRETCH—Hera Harmony, with Frank Lanum at the reins, charges down the stretch, to beat Mr. Arthur, driven by William Haworth, by a nose in the first dash of the second division of the 30 class pace at the Fair here Thursday afternoon. The positions were reversed in the second dash. (Record-Herald photo)

High-lining stretch drives, close finishes and full fields marked the second day of harness horse racing at the Fair here Wednesday.

Although the time in none of the eight dashes threatened the track records for either trotters or pacers, the balance of fields and their competition overshadowed e d and racing it in two divisions of nine horses each for $375 purses.

The 24 class trot was called off to make room for the two divisions.

The first division was taken by High Thoughts in straight dashes without much trouble. The brown colt won the first dash in 2:13.2 after leading all the way but was dropped to $3.20 in the second.

The Carroll Halliday, Inc., trophy was presented to Baker, owner of the second dash.

The entire eight-dash card was raced right on schedule. With post time at 1:30 p. m., the last race was over by 4 p. m.

Vegetable Output May Be Below Par

WASHINGTON — The Agriculture Department predicted today that total production of vegetables this year may be slightly below last year but moderately above average.

Vegetables for the fresh markets were expected to be about the same as last summer. But sup-pplies of canned vegetables for the 1957-58 season will be a little smaller than the heavy supplies of last season, the department said.

Free Hand Assured As Cabinet Resigns

TUNIS (UPI)—The Tunisian Cabinet resigned today to give newly named President Habib Bourguiba a free hand in charting the future of the republic proclaimed Thursday.

The Cabinet's resignation came as Tunisia celebrated the dethronement of the Bey of Tunis and the elevation of Bourguiba. Flags and pictures of the president were hauled out and happy crowds milled in the streets.

In lightning fashion Thursday the Constituent Assembly ousted Bey Sidei Mohammed Al-Amin, proclaimed Tunisia a republic and elected Bourguiba president. Bourguiba, long a fighter against French rule, retained the premiership he had held.

In his first official social gesture as president, Bourguiba invited the diplomatic corps to the Bey's palace for a reception.

In taking on the presidency, the peppy little Tunisian moved into a front position in the North African and Arab worlds.

THE CHANGE was a boost for his ambition to unify Libya, Tunisia, Algeria and Morocco in a North African federation not dominated by Egyptian President Nasser. Now Bourguiba can deal as an equal with Sultan Mohammed V of Morocco, who won his country's independence from France last year, and King Idriss of Libya.

Both rulers have reacted coolly to Bourguiba's ouster of the old Bey, a brother monarch although he had been a French puppet for years. But that attitude is expected to change with time. Bourguiba told the Assembly there would be no reprisals against the deposed ruler or his family.

Desert May Hold

On Wednesday, before he flew from southern California to Las Vegas, Binstock purchased two $62,500 insurance policies, naming his wife beneficiary.

An insurance company spokesman said one of the policies plainly states there would be no payoff on a suicide. The second policy did not mention suicide, he reported.

Binstock entered the plane's lavatory shortly after the Convair took off for the return trip from Las Vegas and was never seen again.

Officials pointed out that the physical clues to the accident did not indicate a decompressive explosion.

Decompression applies to the sudden loss of pressurization in an airplane. Air is compressed in the cabin to keep air pressures closer to those at sea level.

A hole in the cabin would release the air into the thinner atmosphere outside, like air rushing from a punctured balloon.

D. T. Renta, a Western vice president, said that four small holes found in the lavatory's ripped-out wall, first reported to be bullet holes, were apparently caused when bolts ripped through the plane's aluminum skin.

The forward bulkhead of the lavatory blew forward into the passengers' cabin. Experts said that in a decompression blast the wall would have been sucked in toward the hole in the fuselage.

Old Cairo Building Falls, Killing 63

CAIRO (UPI)—A five-story building collapsed Thursday night on 200 persons celebrating a wedding, killing 63 and injuring 32.

Fatima, the veiled bride in a white wedding dress, was among those killed. Her bridegroom Mansour Abdel Hamid was injured.

Police said the two lower floors of the house were more than 70 years old and the government ordered them pulled down two years ago. Instead the owner challenged the order and added three more stories. The building was located on a lane six yards wide in the popular Dab el Ahmar residential district.

One was registered Wednesday the other Thursday. Both attested Anders was "loud and unruly" at Self's home.

A twenty-five dollars of the fine was suspended on condition Anders stay away from Self's premises.

Preliminary Work Finished At Well Site

After drilling some 200 feet and establishing the surface casing in the 10 1/2-inch hole, a 7 1/2-inch bit has been started down in the second test well being drilled by Keeweenaw Oil Co., located on the Miami Trace Rd., eight miles from Washington C. H.

Limestone had been encountered near the surface and part of the layer was very hard.

Since the preliminary drilling has been completed, it is expected that the drill will go down about 200 feet daily until harder stone is encountered.

Reports indicated that the well will be down around 300 feet Friday.

It was announced Thursday that within a short time the bulletin board for daily postings of the depth will be erected and the information placed on it.

So far there has been no indication that there will be a public parking lot in the field near the drilling outfit.

The public will not be permitted near the drilling equipment.

Citizens Committee Action

THE LETTER stating the Miami Trace position on sale of bonds, which brought a question from Brandenburg as to whether the board was not "retracting its previous position" with regard to the purposes of the Citizens Committee, said:

"Last November 6th about 58 percent of the citizens of Miami Trace approved a building bond levy after most thorough and intense public discussion of the pros and cons of the questions at issue. All members of the Miami Trace board have long since publicly committed themselves to the program of a rural high school.

"Since the Miami Trace board, individually and collectively as a board, firmly believe in democracy and democratic processes and that last November a clear and unmistakable mandate to build a rural high school was rendered the board by the voters, the Miami Trace board states now that the building bonds voted last November will be sold at the earliest opportunity. This will be done notwithstanding the existence of a Citizens Committee, a report by a Citizens Committee or the lack of such a report."

The chairman observed in answer to Brandenburg's question that the Miami Trace board apparently was basing its stand on a recent Supreme Court opinion that Citizens committee powers do not override the statutory powers of school boards.

THE CITY BOARD'S letter said:

"For several years the City Board of Education has sought means of getting together with the county and local boards of education to explore possibilities of cooperatively providing a better educational program for the youth of the city and county. The purpose behind these efforts was not for the acquisition of power or control by any group or individual. The sole purpose was to improve the educational benefits to all the children of this area in the most economical manner."

"When it was proposed that a county Citizens Committee be appointed to conduct an unbiased comprehensive survey of the school problems in the city and county school districts as a whole, for the purpose of offering a better educational program on an economic basis, the City Board of Education agreed that this would be most desirable. In the opinion of its members, a comprehensive survey conducted under the direction of competent experienced professionals would be the best means possible in projecting a long-range program for the benefit of the children, the schools, and the taxpayers of the entire county.

"As the months have gone by and there has been no positive action on the part of the county Citizens Committee to proceed with the promised comprehensive survey, the elementary school problems of the city have continued to increase to the point where there will be 11 emergency classrooms used by the elementary pupils in the 1957-58 school year. It is evident that an elementary classroom building program in the city will have to be carried out regardless of the outcome of the survey concerning the secondary schools.

"There appears to be no great desire on the part of the majority of the county Citizens Committee which showed those students check-to speed up the securing of an unbiased comprehensive survey by a competent outside survey organization. Had the committee acted promptly following its organization, the survey would have been completed by this time by the best recognized survey organization in the country.

"In view of the fact that the delaying action seems to be the primary goal of the committee, and because the proposed city elementary schools would be needed whether or not there is any further consolidation recommended by the survey group the City Board of Education is of the opinion that it should issue the bonds approved by the voters for the elementary classrooms as soon as it is legally possible to do so, and to proceed with its building program. This opinion in no way precludes the necessity for having a survey of the secondary school situation.

"Members of the City Board of Education have been advised by their bonding attorney that as yet the bonds cannot be sold. The City Board of Education is deeply appreciative of the efforts and fine spirit shown by the city members of the county Citizens Committee and wishes to commend them for giving their time in an attempt to improve the facilities as represented to the voters"; curriculum, utilization of buildings, pupil transportation and school legislation by the General Assembly.

All six committees are chaired by rural members of the committee.

Before adjourning, all members of the committee declined reimbursement for mileage as guaranteed under the Citizens Committee law. No mileage payments have been made to members since the committee was organized.

The letter asked whether rural students have been "lured" into Washington High School contrary to board action of March 1956 barring tuition students.

The letter raised a question as to the status of "approximately 50 non-resident students" and declared that if the "city board and its superintendent persist in the 'closed door, but not locked policy,' then such school attendance should be made lawful by accepting and requiring personal tuition, as required by state law."

Citizens Committee Member Edward Cunningham said that if any law has been violated, it is the duty of the board whose territory has been infringed upon to appeal — that Miami Trace district should, if it feels a wrong is being done, take the matter up with the Ohio Department of Education.

(W. A. Smith, superintendent of city schools, said that the board last year set up three criteria for the admission of former tuition students and that the board assumed that parents were truthful in statements they had met one or more of the three conditions imposed.)

(These conditions, listed with the Ohio Department of Education, are: 1. Residence with one or both parents within the school district for a minimum of five nights per week (this does not include those involved in the athletic program who must live within the district the year round); 2. Residence within the school district on a self-supporting basis; 3. Legal adoption by a resident of the school district.)

(Smith said that 46 former students were admitted under these criteria and that the attendance officer had made periodic checks

McKinley is still undergoing treatment for severe lacerations on his head and continues under observation for a possible skull fracture.

The police have not questioned him in the hospital here since the day he was brought in suffering from shock and loss of blood.

Mainly About People

Mrs. Roy Fultz, of Jeffersonville, underwent an emergency appendectomy Thursday night in Greene Memorial Hospital, Xenia.

Mr. and Mrs. Roger E. Rapp, Route 5, have chosen the name Joanne Kay for their daughter who was born in Memorial Hospital Monday.

The condition of Dr. N. M. Reiff, who was stricken with a heart attack Tuesday afternoon at his home, remains "critical," it was reported Friday noon at Memorial Hospital. Dr. Reiff was rushed to the hospital where he was revived with a delicate heart massage operation.

THE MATTER of "unauthorized absence" is one of six subcommittee assignments made by the chairman in connection with the proposed preliminary study."

Other subjects to be considered are finance ("with special emphasis on the adequacy of the bonds voted in the City and Miami Trace districts to provide the facilities as represented to the voters"); curriculum, utilization of buildings, pupil transportation and school legislation by the 102nd General Assembly.

All six committees are chaired by rural members of the committee.

Before adjourning, all members of the committee declined reimbursement for mileage as guaranteed under committee law. No mileage payments have been made to members since the committee was organized.

The letter asked whether rural students have been "lured" into Washington High School contrary to board action of March 1956 barring tuition students.

The letter raised a question as to the status of "approximately 50 non-resident students" and declared that if the city board and its superintendent persist in the 'closed door, but not locked policy,' then such school attendance should be made lawful by accepting and requiring personal tuition, as required by state law."

Citizens Committee Member Edward Cunningham said that if any law has been violated, it is the duty of the board whose territory has been infringed upon to appeal—that Miami Trace district should, if it feels a wrong is being done, take the matter up with the Ohio Department of Education.

(W. A. Smith, superintendent of city schools, said that the board last year set up three criteria for the admission of former tuition students and that the board assumed that parents were truthful in statements they had met one or more of the three conditions imposed.)

Hoffa's Troubles Mount; Testimony Delay Granted

Union Chief's Lawyer Cites Pile of Trouble

Congressional Group To Let Teamster Aide Attend Miami Parley

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Rackets Committee today granted James R. Hoffa's plea to delay further testimony from him until after next week's Teamsters Union convention.

Chairman McClellan (D-Ark) told Hoffa's lawyer, George Fitzgerald, the committee had intended to call Hoffa here Saturday as a witness.

Fitzgerald protested against a flood of committee, court and AFL-CIO charges breaking around Hoffa "like confetti at a county fair. Everything is happening on the eve of the convention."

The convention starts Monday at Miami Beach, Fla. Hoffa is the leading candidate to be elected Teamsters president as successor to Dave Beck. Beck like Hoffa has been linked to mushrooming Teamsters Union scandals.

The Senate committee has accused Hoffa of misusing thousands of dollars of union funds and wrongful use of his powers.

AND AN AFL-CIO committee has charged Hoffa with associations with hoodlums and has indicated the teamsters will be ousted from the federation if Hoffa assumes the union leadership.

McClellan said his committee had also intended to summon Owen Bert Brennan and Frank Collins, union aides to Hoffa.

Fitzgerald asked for at least a 30-day postponement of any required appearance of Hoffa, Collins or Brennan. He said he would have to advise Brennan, president of Detroit Teamsters Local 337 and Hoffa's sidekick and business partner, to invoke the Fifth Amendment and refuse to answer questions if Brennan were called for questioning today.

Collins is secretary-treasurer of Detroit Teamsters Local No. 299, Hoffa's home local. Committee counsel Robert Kennedy described him as Hoffa's paymaster. He, like Brennan, was waiting to be called for committee testimony.

McClellan said the committee would "weigh this thing very, very carefully." He said the committee doesn't want to be unfair or impose on anyone.

Fitzgerald said Hoffa and Brennan are jointly indicted, with professional New York wire tapper Bernhard Spindel, on wire tap conspiracy charges in New York. This is to go to trial Oct. 15.

Fitzgerald said Hoffa and Collins were indicted again Wednesday on charges of perjury in respect to testimony they gave to the grand jury investigating the wire tap case. The Teamsters attorney cautioned against the committee trying to question all three before these charges are aired.

Fitzgerald said he was "generally apprehensive as a lawyer" that Brennan also may be indicted for perjury in connection with testimony he gave the New York grand jury on the wire tap case.

Booby-Trap Hurts Coeds

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—A Ball State Teachers College senior who couldn't get a date with a coed he admitted he made a booby-trapped package that injured her and two other college girls.

State Police Lt. Robert Dillon said David Wayne Carter, 20, New Castle, Ind., admitted rigging the shotgun-breech device and sending it to Ruth Ann Petry, 18.

The package exploded Friday in a building on the college campus at Muncie, Ind., as Miss Petry and two other coeds opened it. Miss Petry and Linda Helverson, 18, were injured only slightly, but Mrs. Mel Reynolds, 20, lost the tips of two fingers and was wounded in the arms and neck.

All three are from Anderson. Carter was questioned at Muncie because of his attempts to date Miss Petry. He confessed here after being brought to state police headquarters for a lie detector test.

Carter told police he cut out the breech section of a shotgun and inserted it against a block of wood so that the gun would fire when the block was moved in opening a box.

He said he left the device in a school locker picked at random. Addressed to Miss Petry, it was found and delivered to her.

Labor Split Looms As Teamsters Get Order To Clean Up

NEW YORK (AP)—Possibilities of the bitterest schism in the ranks of organized labor in more than two decades shaped up today in the wake of a 30-day cleanup ultimatum issued to the giant Teamsters Union by the AFL-CIO.

The Executive Council of the AFL-CIO set the time limit for possible suspension of the nation's largest union at an extraordinary session Wednesday.

The council acted in the face of warning that James R. Hoffa, a chief target of the AFL-CIO leadership, was sure of election as president of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters at its convention next week.

The warning came from John English, secretary of the Teamsters, in his capacity as an AFL-CIO vice president and a member of the Executive Council.

English, who cast the lone vote against the cleanup mandate, urged the Executive Council to make a hasty decision that he said might cut the heart out of the merged labor movement.

A similar ultimatum was issued Tuesday to the 40,000-member United Textile Workers of America. This union is distinct from the larger Textile Workers Union of America.

Girard Surprises His Own Attorneys with Testimony

MAEBASHI, Japan (AP)—William S. Girard surprised his own counsel today by denying under oath that he shouted "Get out" to scare away Japanese shell collectors on a U. S. firing range last Jan. 30.

All prosecution witnesses have testified Girard, or a soldier resembling him, shouted "Get out" or "Get out of here" that day when Mrs. Naka Sakai was killed.

The Ottawa, Ill., soldier is accused of luring her closer, then firing a fatal shot from his rifle grenade launcher.

Girard's defense lawyer had intended to use the warning shots to bolster his contention that Girard was shooting away, not enticing, shell collectors.

Judge Yuzo Kawachi asked Girard whether he said "Get out" or "Get out of her." Girard replied: "No, sir."

Girard told the truth as he knows it," Maj. Stanley Levin, Girard's army legal adviser, said later.

Some Progress Reported In Needed Move

There is currently reported to be an encouraging start toward the much advocated movement for the federal government and state governments to get together on efforts toward "bringing more government activities back home."

Recently the numerous people who have insisted that this is one way to cut high federal government taxes, are heartened by the initial plans of the Joint Federal-State Action Committee which is seeking ways to stem the trend over many past years toward centralization of power in Washington D. C.

Most all of us here in Fayette County who have watched this growing power in Washington D. C. have felt for a long time that something should be done about it. It is probably that this same line of thinking is true among observing citizens in every community in the country.

In spite of this, nearly every locality gives way to the idea of obtaining some cash grant, whenever possible, from the federal government, on most every new public project which comes up. The favorite reason assigned for such efforts to get government money is "if we don't get it some other community will."

Recently the committee of state governors and federal officials, formed at the suggestion of President Eisenhower, in a meeting at Hershey, Pa., reached tentative agreement on a plan under which the states would assume about $500,000,000 in federal expenditures. This, at least, is a good start if carried out.

Under this plan, the states would take over complete responsibility for the school lunch programs, vocational education, natural disaster relief, water pollution, small "stimulative" grants and 50 per cent of the supplemental old-age assistance.

In return, it was recommended that the federal government relinquish to the states the taxes it now collects on local telephone service, amusement tickets, cabarets, club dues and initiation fees, coin operated gaming and amusement devices, safe deposit box rentals, bowling alley and pool tables.

It has become evident to nearly everybody that some action is needed to prevent the states from becoming almost powerless satellites of the national government.

More Federal aid means higher Federal taxes, less revenue left for state and local governments—and even more dependence on Federal aid.

It has been pointed out by many discerning people that "grants from Washington D. C. to our states have increased more than two and half times in recent years. But our communities are not 'getting something for nothing'—the cost in taxes is far higher than if the projects were handled at home, by local authorities responsive to local needs."

"These grants-in-aid, this pan-handling approach to filling state and community needs, costs America far more in freedom than it does in funds. Big-government spending means big-government controls, as many a once-free people have learned to its sorrow."

Diet and Health

Personal cleanliness doesn't have to be forgotten by telephone linemen, construction men and others who must work outside away from sanitary facilities.

No longer do these field workers have to grab sandwiches from their lunch boxes with grimy dirty or oil-stained hands. Waterless hand cleaners now permit a good cleanup job right at the work site.

These waterless cleaners remove dirt and oil as well as soap and water. In some cases they do a job that's even more effective.

Highway Construction 'Obscures' Repair Need

COLUMBUS (I.P.)—A. J. Moon, Wyandot County highway engineer, said here Wednesday that all the talk about highway construction is obscuring the need for highway maintenance. He told a meeting of the Committee on Interstate Standards of the Ohio Assn. of County Engineers that the cost of future maintenance will reflect on budgets at the local level and on the availability of state funds for construction.

KAUFMAN'S BARGAIN STORE

106-114 W. COURT ST.
ELLET KAUFMAN, PROP.

SINCE 1914

"Mary Haworth's Mail"

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: George and I have been married five years, and have lived far beyond our means in this time—buying things and incurring obligations we can't afford.

We've relied chiefly on my salary of $4,600 a year (in a secretarial administrative job) to maintain our shaky financing—for George hasn't made more than $300 a month since we married. Since leaving the Army a year ago, he is making even less, and now has gone back to school to get a college degree.

His earning potential will be less than $5,000 a year for maybe three years.

Continually I reproach myself for living above my husband's income, and for being unable to accommodate myself to life on his scale of earning. Yet I feel it is literally impossible to live on $300 a month in this area (as George expects me to).

Counting on my earnings, we've bought a late model costly car, household appliances and some furniture, and have made other debts. With George's money we are able to pay only for rent, food and incidentals. When I reproach him for our many bills and my fears that they wouldn't be paid, except for my salary, he says—"Well, you made the bills." Yet he doesn't object to enjoying the things thus acquired.

He talks of buying a house one day soon—which I say we can't even consider for about 10 years, on his present prospects. I feel with the money I've made since we married, we should have a backlog of savings, but we have no savings and are constantly in debt, more and more. We seem to get nowhere.

George hasn't much ambition; I have to push him into things. Am I foolish in doing all this? Have I used the wrong approach?

F. C.

DEAR F.C.: Your whining recital suggests to me that your husband George is hardly more than a cat's-paw in your scheme of things; and a great disappointment in your opinion.

Also your story indicates that you are your own worst enemy financially—anxiously involved in compulsive over-spending, meanwhile blaming George for the demoralizing strain you put on the budget.

Obviously you are sorely confused—about a great deal more than money management. I take it. Your troublesome indulgence of tastes beyond your means probably signifies hunger for a life that satisfies; that is based on real values—the nature of which you can't specify on the basis of past experience.

As regards your problem, you have flashes of awareness and storms of emotion. At times you see straight and recognize your mistakes—for example: in this letter you reproach yourself (somewhat) for swanking on credit. But in the main (and between the lines) you are fired by emotional conviction of being financially wronged by George, because he falls far short of your up-in-the-clouds living standards.

This is the general gist of your complaint: it is substantially how you feel (unconsciously) about your self-made predicament of growing indebtedness.

oldest fighting ship still afloat won a skirmish with a Liberian freighter in Baltimore Harbor

Wednesday night.

Hostilities began a week ago when "Greek and Chinese music" roared from the freighter's loud-speaker system to entertain its crew.

Donald Stewart Constellation caretaker couldn't sleep Wednesday night he responded to the music with 16-gun broadsides — on record, of course Stewart kept his loud-speaker going for three hours ending with a selection by the Highland Bagpipers.

The Librarian ship had struck its loud-speaker.

Preparations Now Under Way For Christmas Seal Sale Here

Preliminary work for the annual Christmas Seal sale in Fayette County today is well advanced, although the seals will not be put in the mail for around 6,500 prospective supporters of the fight against tuberculosis for nearly six weeks. Mrs. George Finley, new executive secretary of the Fayette County Tuberculosis and Health Assn., said today.

The file of all the names and addresses has been gone over by members of Epsilon Sigma Alpha chapter of the Alpha Theta sorority and put in shape for the mailing.

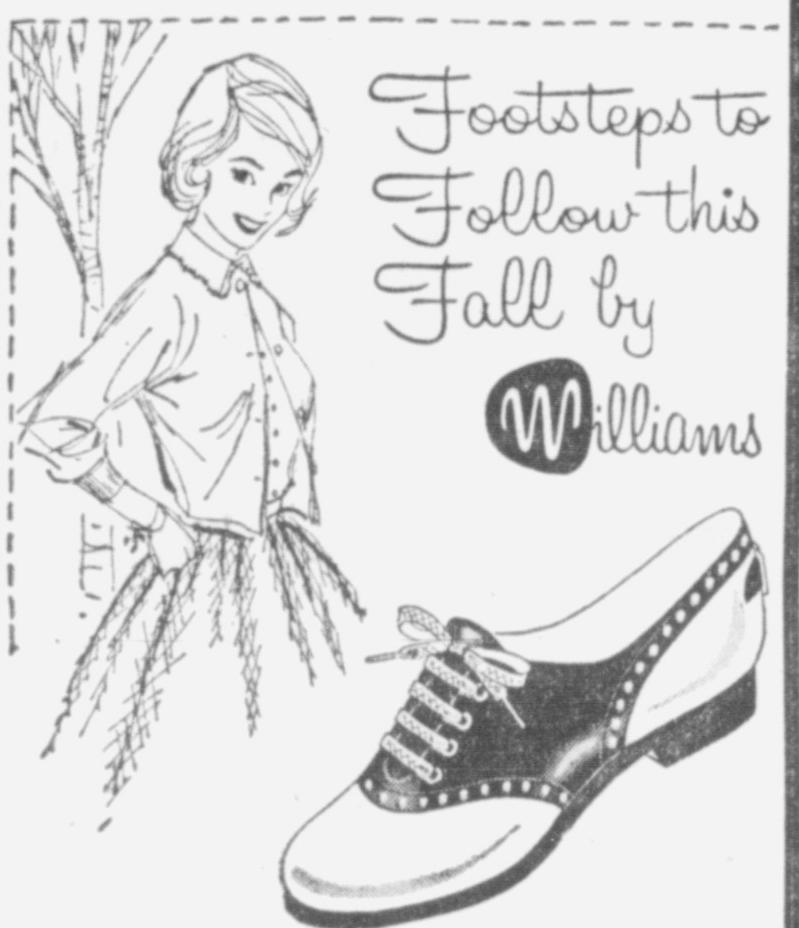

Addresses have been checked and the list brought up to date. Cards of some who have been regular contributors before moving away have been taken out and names of some newcomers to the county have been added.

The task was completed Wednesday after nearly two weeks of work by the sorority members, who came to the office of the Tuberculosis and Health Assn. here in small groups of from two to half a dozen during the afternoons.

Members of the sorority, who give their time to the Christmas Seal sale as a part of their organization's overall welfare program, are Mrs. Howard Burnett Jr., president; Mrs. Robert Goodson, Mrs. Dudley Moon, Mrs. Robert Caldwell, Mrs. Lester Stephenson, Mrs. Charles Mallow, Mrs. Richard Kelley, Mrs. Mae Dews Jr., Mrs. Dwight Martin, Mrs. Gail Mershon, Mrs. Sam Athey, Mrs. Sam Wilson, Mrs. Frank Junk, Mrs. William Hunt, Mrs. Roger Rapp, Mrs. Charles Gibeaut and Mrs. David Moore.

MEMBERS of Beta Iota, sister chapter of Alpha Theta sorority, will lend a hand later by putting

Round about Fayette County

By B. E. KELLEY

For years I have been told that a meteorite was being used for a grave marker in Fairview Cemetery on Route 70, a mile northwest of Jeffersonville, long the burial ground for residents of the community.

A few days ago while passing the cemetery, I drove in and contacted J. O. Gahm, caretaker of that cemetery and seven others in Jefferson Township. He pointed out the stone at once.

I found the stone, which is about 12 inches in diameter and is partly buried in the ground, to be a glacial boulder of granite-like formation, with much quartz imbedded in the main matrix of the dark pink stone.

I have seen many similar glacial stones brought here from the mountains on the northeastern seaboard. They are of a type that soon weather, due to their coarse make-up.

Had the stone been a meteorite it would have been torn to pieces as it rushed through the sky at terrific speed, or it would have been melted and disintegrated by the heat generated in its mad dash from outer space to the earth's surface.

I have inspected several stones which were said to be meteorites and have always found them to be glacial stones or concretions.

There are only a few glacial stones used as grave markers in Fayette County, one of the largest being on the Fisher lot in Sugar Grove Cemetery, Route 70, south.

DANIEL BOONE HERE

Daniel Boone, great pioneer and Indian fighter, hunted in Fayette County as well as other parts of Ohio, and was once held by the Shawnee Indians who captured him in Kentucky and removed him to their large village on the banks of North Fork of Paint Creek near Frankfort.

I recently obtained this story from Lewis M. Day, 87, who has practised law in Chillicothe for 63 years. He has a keen memory and history is one of his main hobbies.

Incidentally, Day is a fifth cousin of Daniel Boone and fourth cousin of Simon Kenton.

He related that Boone was captured in 1772 and was forced to do all kinds of work for the Indians, including making maple syrup, cutting sap troughs, etc., in what is now Porter's Hollow, a few miles south of Frankfort, which was then called Old Town.

Boone watched his chance and one night escaped his Indian guards.

Following North Fork of Paint Creek to Waugh's Run, which enters the stream from the east, he followed that stream until near daylight, then took refuge in a giant hollow sycamore tree. Boone is quoted as saying he never saw as much wild game anywhere as in the area about the sycamore tree which grew in Northwestern Ross County.

The next night he headed east to Deer Creek, followed it to the Scioto River, stole an Indian canoe and, still traveling at night, made his way down the Scioto to the Ohio River and on to Maysville, Ky.

Later he and Simon Kenton led a party of settlers against the

Tractor Somersaults, Killing Farmer, 67

EAST LIVERPOOL — The body of Anderson Pugh, 67, was found beside his tractor on his farm at nearby Calcutta.

Columbian County Coroner Ernest Sturgis said Pugh had suffered internal injuries and a skull fracture. He added there were indications that the tractor overturned on him, but made a complete somersault and landed on its wheels.

Now the fodder and stalks are cut to pieces and left on the fields, where it proves a wonderful fertilizer and soil conditioner negligible compared to the old method of saving the fodder.

Also the cost of corn cutting, which finally reached 20 cents a bushel or more, as well as the cost of husking, was saved.

Again with the diminishing number of horses, which reached as many as 12,048 in 1910 and dwindled to 4,100 in 1943, there has been far less demand for corn fodder as feed, and its loss for feed is not missed.

An entire field of corn in the hush is now a rarity, and never fails to attract attention.

Newest Hollywood Romance:Natalie Wood-Bob Wagner

HOLLYWOOD — Hollywood's No. 1 romance of the moment concerns the 1957 version — flaming youth, Natalie Wood and young, Robert Wagner.

It's enough to make a fan magazine editor coo with delight. Here is Natalie, who is to the present generation what Joan Crawford and Lana Turner were to previous ones. Add Bob, long-time darling of the younger set, and you've got an ideal setup for realms of copy.

Who Natalie had to go to the Adirondacks for locations of "Marjorie Morningstar," Bob was there. He came home with her on the train arrived here at 9 a.m. visited her on the set at 1 a.m. He is present on the set every day.

Love?

Natalie coyly declines comment.

She does admit that she and Bob are going steady, but says they have made no plans for the future.

As she learned with Elvis Presley, it is difficult to carry on a romance in public.

"There never was anything between Elvis and me," she said.

"How could there be? We never had enough time alone."

Armed Forces Hostess Assn. Is Big Help to GI Families

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Armed Forces Hostess Assn., friend in need to thousands of service families the world over, tries to answer queries or a multitude of subjects.

"We try to help anyone wanting any information any place where military personnel are stationed," explains Mrs. John A. Peters, wife of an Army lieutenant colonel and president of the association of volunteer officers' wives which has its headquarters and information clearing house at the Pentagon.

The store of information on housing, transportation, schools, recreation, baby-sitters and other subjects is obtained from the president of officers' wives' clubs on posts around the globe.

"They know what women want," observes Lylas Peters, "the many varied problems that plague the poor service wife who must pack up and move her family when her husband is transferred from post to post every three or four years. When they get stuck, we're the ones to help."

'Kid Brother' Is 71 Years Old

MIDDLEBURG, N. Y. (AP) — At the age of 71, Rollin Bouck of Middleburg is the baby in a family of three daughters and four sons.

The eldest is Mrs. Viola Radick 85, of Schoharie. The others are Mrs. Inez Young, 8, of Selkirk; Tilden Bouck, 82, of Schoharie; Tobias Bouck, 80, C. Brewster Bouck 75, and Mrs. Mattie Wormer, 73, all of Middleburg.

With one exception, they reside within a radius of 10 miles. They are children of the late Mr. and Mrs. James A. Bouck.

Formed in Washington in 1949

by a small group of women under the direction of Mrs. F. P. Capbelli, wife of an Army colonel, the organization of volunteer answer-ladies and problem solvers has boomed to 1,000 clubs.

Some 60 of these are operating in this area alone. In the Pentagon a staff of 40 volunteers rotates in manning the office, each serving at least two full days each month. One of the main functions of the association is to extend a personal welcome to newly appointed officers and their families in the community and to supply assistance to all service personnel in their new surroundings.

On entering this area the service wife is contacted by one of the neighborhood hostesses who tries to help her and her family become a part of, rather than an addition, to the community.

NEW YORK (AP) — Pat Greene has one of the easiest—yet toughest—tasks on television.

She scrupulously avoids any hint of off-beat romance and enforces such requirements as that neither partner ever has been divorced. The program proudly proclaims that a survey showed marriages made on television have only one-tenth the average divorce rate.

One of the surprises of Mrs. Greene's work is the consistency with which one household item is asked by the brides.

"More than anything else they ask for sewing machines," Pat reports. "I don't know where the career girl has gone."

Rose Ave. PTA Set for New Year

Probation Officer Tells of Work Here

The Rose Avenue School Parent-Teacher Assn. laid the foundation for the program it will carry out during the coming school year at its meeting in the school Tuesday night.

The highlight of the meeting, however, was a talk by Richard McMullen, probation officer of the county's Probate Court. He told the parents — and a good many children who were at the meeting with them — about his work here and its objectives.

Mrs. Richard Whiteside, president, conducted the business meeting at which the new secretary, Mrs. Charles Dewitt, made her report and Mrs. Kenneth Blair, treasurer, reported there is nearly $100 in the treasury.

Hugh Rea, principal and sixth grade teacher, introduced the teachers, only one of whom, Mrs. Elizabeth Gray, is new to the school this year. On the staff, first grade through sixth, are Mrs. Price Neff, Mrs. Harry Townsend, Mrs. Gray, Mrs. Clark Pensyl, Mrs. Ruth Rider, Mrs. Mary Gillespie and Prin. Rea. There are two fourth grade rooms.

MRS. WHITED announced the following committees and committee chairmen who will serve for the remainder of the year:

Program — Mrs. Robert Harper, Mrs. Clifford Puckett and Mrs. Gillespie; Membership — Prin. Rea; Ways and Means — Mrs. Joseph E. Horney, Mrs. Omar Schwartz and Mrs. Mac Dews Jr. and Mrs. Ridder.

Flowers and cards — Mrs. Charles DeWitt; Public relations — Mrs. Thurman Coulter; Room mothers — Mrs. Richard Kellar.

The room mothers chairman announced that they have planned two parties for the children during the year, one at Thanksgiving and the other at Easter. The PTA agreed to furnish the ice cream for them.

The ways and means committee outlined a plan for selling candy to raise money, but the details were not settled.

The program of the Fayette County Council for Retarded Children was discussed at length and was endorsed by the PTA.

The attendance banner was awarded to Mrs. Gillespie's fourth grade room.

ROOM MOTHERS for the coming year are:

First grade — Mrs. Joseph Horney, Mrs. Omar Schwartz and Mrs. Howard Stevens.

Second grade — Mrs. Donald Polard, Mrs. William Holdren and Mrs. Raymond Sword.

Third grade — Mrs. Eugene Williams, Mrs. William Burns and Mrs. Joseph Forrest.

Fourth grade — Mrs. Chester Puckett, Mrs. Virgil Palmer and Mrs. Victor Saltz.

Fourth grade — Mrs. Mac Dews Jr., Mrs. Charles Pfersick and Mrs. Charles Callender.

Fifth grade — Mrs. Thurman Coulter, Mrs. William Souther Jr. and Mrs. Raymond Wills.

Sixth grade — Mrs. Edgar Matthews, Mrs. Edsel Kinzer and Mrs. Bertha Wilburn.

Refreshments were served by the officers.

U. S. Inflation Picture Shows Opposing Sides

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP) — The two sides in the inflation lineup show clearly today in figures released as the autumn season gets under way.

One side is the rising cost of living which pinches everyone. The other side is rising farm income, increasing dollar return for many manufacturers of nondurable goods, for many services, for many workers.

In the contest on the inflation playing field today's lineups include: The heftier factory pay check vs. the bigger family bills; higher farm prices vs. higher farm costs; rising housing and home maintenance costs vs. rising operating costs of builders and utilities; declining industrial material prices vs. rising prices of end products; still rising consumer spending vs. the levelling off of business spending for capital goods and inventories.

The charges accuse Janet Paul 19, member of the family that operates the restaurant, of serving 3.2 per cent beer to a 16-year-old boy and a 17-year-old boy the night of Sept. 11.

Both boys were found guilty of intoxication by Judge R. L. Brubaker in Probate Court here a few days after their arrest. D. P. O. Sheriff Donald Thompson filed the charge against the restaurant on the heels of their convictions.

The 16-year-old, already on probation for a previous conviction on the same charge, was "continued on probation indefinitely," and the 17-year-old was put on probation for six months, Probation Officer Richard J. McMullen said.

Calvary Baptists Will Show Movie

The motion picture, "Oil Town U. S. A." filmed during Evangelist Billy Graham's Crusade in Houston, Tex., will be shown in Good Hope Saturday night under the auspices of Calvary Baptist Church.

It features the young evangelist and his team in their meetings in Rice Stadium, where attendance was as high as 60,000 for a single night.

The movie, in color, lasts 80 minutes. Featured are Redd Harper and Cindy Walker, stars of "Mr. Texas," a previous Graham picture.

The Calvary Baptist Church, which was organized in Washington C. H. only about a year ago, has been holding services in Good Hope for the last four months. Before that, they were held in the Wilson School on Route 70.

Doors to the church building in Good Hope will be opened Saturday at 6:30 p. m. The movie slated to start about half an hour later.

Jeff Tigers Win Baseball Crown

Jeffersonville's Tigers today hold the fast and clean fielding by the Tigers who did not make a single bobble during the game. The Bulldogs hit the ball hard, but Tiger fielders always managed to be in the right place at the right time.

The Tigers, coached by Robert Hildreth, took the title Wednesday evening when they edged Bloomingburg's Bulldogs, 4 to 1, on the Bloomingburg lot to finish the four-team double-elimination tournament without a defeat.

It was the second time, the Tigers had conquered the Bulldogs in the tourney; the first time the Tigers won, 14 to 7.

Although the Bulldogs outhit the Tigers, 6-5, in the final, they could not bunch their hits effectively.

The deciding factor probably was

Braves Sport Tough Infield

Inner Circle Tagged As Heavy Hit Crew

NEW YORK (P) — Joe Adcock, Red Schoendienst, Johnny Logan and Eddie Mathews represent the hardest hitting infield in the major leagues.

Only first baseman Adcock, among these four, is rated less than a superior fielder. And he likely will be replaced by Frank Torre, a defensive standout, when the occasion demands.

For these reasons, the Milwaukee Braves' infield rates a decided edge over the New York Yankees in the World Series which opens next Wednesday.

The Yankees' infield picture is far from clear. The big question is whether first baseman Bill Skowron, .304 righthanded batter with good power, will be able to play.

Manager Casey Stengel would like to have Skowron in the lineup, but he has been sidelined since Sept. 13 with a sacroiliac condition.

Should Skowron be unavailable Stengel's infield for the opener probably will shape up this way: first base—Harry Simpson; second base—Bobby Richardson or Gil McDougald; third base—Andy Carey. Carey likely will be replaced by Jerry Lumpe against Milwaukee righthanded pitchers Lew Burdette and Bob Buhl.

The home run figures of the infielders are most revealing. The Milwaukee regulars have accounted for 69.

For the Yanks the infielders have hit 37.

Only at shortstop, where McDougald gets the nod over Logan, do the Yankee infielders compare favorably with Milwaukee's. Gil is batting .290 to Logan's .277 and the New York star is just a bit better defensively.

Let's look at the other infield positions:

Second base: Schoendienst over Richardson or Coleman. With a batting average of .311, the red-head probably will be the only major leaguer to reach the 200-hit mark this season. Richardson and Coleman are much weaker batters.

First base: Adcock over Skowron or Simpson. The Milwaukee slugger hits a longer ball than either of the Yanks. He's in better shape than Skowron and superior all-around to Simpson.

Third base: Mathews over Carey or Lumpe. Eddie, in addition to his hefty hitting, is an underrated fielder.

Tony Kubek, the Yankees' brilliant rookie, should seen infield action in the late innings. He probably will be Stengel's starter in left field, where he's played most often in recent weeks.

Redleg Bonus Hurler Fails To Curb Cubs

CINCINNATI (P)—Jay Hook, the Cincinnati Redleg 20-year-old $65,000 bonus hurler from Northwestern University, must wait another day, perhaps another season, to record his first major league victory.

The Chicago Cubs saw to that Wednesday night when, in closing out Crosley Field for the year with a 7-5 victory, they knocked Hook from the box two-thirds of the way through the third inning. Five of six runs had scored.

Claude Osteen, just 18 and himself a minor-bonus acquisition, succeeded Hook, and promptly wild-pitched home the sixth tally, walked a man but ended matters by striking out Ernie Banks, the 12th man to come to the plate. The Cubs broke the scoring jem in the second.

Osteen allowed one hit during two and one-third innings, then gave way to Dave Skaugstad, 17-year-old high school star from Compton, Calif. Skaugstad, making his first appearance under big league fire, allowed three hits the rest of the distance.

Typical, perhaps of the "extremes of youth," the three Cincinnati youngsters walked 10 and struck out 8. Skaugstad added a second wild pitch to the record.

Moe Drabowsky, the Cubs' own 22-year-old bonus baby, racked up his 12th win of the year, even though Don Elston had to save the game for him in the ninth.

Lions May Branch Out From Straight Football Friday...If Field Is Dry

Given a break by the Weatherman, the Lions of WHS may branch out a bit from the straight football they've had to stick to because of the mud in their first two games when they meet the boys from Little Miami High School at Morrow Friday night.

With Kenny Evans likely to be sidelined most on Friday night's game because of an ouchy leg, Rainy Foster and Jerry Shepard have been holding down his halfback post in this week's work-outs.

Tim Kellough, who has been behind Gary Stoddard at fullback, has been shifted into the line to replace Hank Anders, who has been moved to fullback.

Domenico said the nearly a dozen boys who have come out for football in the last two weeks "are coming along fine, their spirit is good," we're all glad to see them out." He added, significantly, that "some of them may even see some action Friday night."

The WHS BAND, after being rained out of its show at the first defense to stop it much of this week.

Wednesday evening's drill was concentrated largely on this defense. With the reserves running an offense from the single wing used by Little Miami, the first and second string WHS lines took turns at stopping them. And, Domenico was all smiles when it was over.

He said "we had two players for each position...that gives us more depth."

Tuesday, emphasis was on the offense with Chuck Hire, John Campbell and Buddy Lynch handling the ball at the quarterback spot. Timing was better and the coordination between the backs and the line is showing improvement, Domenico said.

Dick Welsh, who was out last week with a bad ankle, is back at center. This, in the eyes of the coaches, will help because he has experience in getting the ball back. Doug Rider, Jim Myers and Bob

Ugly Mug Is Beauty In Lebanon Payoff

LEBANON (P)—Ugly Mug, a 5-year-old brown gelding, was a beautiful horse to those who had him Wednesday night, in running his own fastest mile, he won the eighth race to pay his backers $62.40, one of the season's top prizes at Lebanon Raceway.

Ugly Mug went the mile in 2:08.45, with Bob Brown of Troy at the reins. He is owned by Jack L. Smith of Waynesfield.

Some discussion was on how to raise more money for the club's activities, but no definite plans were made. President Howard Miller, appointed a finance committee composed of Charles Hile, Paul Pennington and William McArthur.

Coach Fred Domenico talked with the members of tentative plans which have been made for sending the Lions to Cleveland to see the Cleveland Browns in action. The team will have to have a successful season," Domenico said, "before we make definite plans for such a weekend trip."

Domenico showed movies of last week's Xenia game and discussed the coaching staff's plans for the Little Miami game coming up here Friday night.

A membership drive is now underway. The club will meet every Wednesday at 8 p.m. at the field house, when some member of the coaching staff will show movies of the last Lions game and discuss the play.

Bucks Cautioned Against Rough Play

COLUMBUS (P)—Ohio State Coach Woody Hayes is doing everything he can to have a full roster of able-bodied men on hand for the Buckeyes' football opener against Texas Christian University here Saturday.

He gave the team specific orders at practice Wednesday to avoid roughing it up. The result was a light-duty session and today's session, the OSU coach said, will be even lighter.

Almost all of Wednesday's practice emphasized defense. The Tigers who did not make a single bobble during the game. The Bulldogs hit the ball hard, but Tiger fielders always managed to be in the right place at the right time.

The Bulldogs got their only run in the sixth, the only frame in which they got more than one hit.

The Tigers scored in the first two walks and a hit and added 2 runs in the third on 2 hits, 2 bases on balls and an error. The last run came in the final inning on a freak play when the runner came all the way home from second when the Bulldog catcher could not find the ball—which was right under his feet all the time.

Only extra base hits were doubles by Tiger J. Smith and Bulldog J. Hidy.

Evans and Snyder struck out 4 and walked 6 Tigers while Cook, pitching for Jeffersonville, fanned 6 and walked 5.

The Tigers had some consolation at the end of the season, however:

Only one member of the squad of 15, Kenny Anderson, is a senior. Both Coach Hildreth and Coach Everett Rudolph of the Bulldog g's said after the tournament that a interest in baseball is definitely increasing, in the county schools.

They credited this largely to the Little League and Babe Ruth League baseball program that is carried on in the summer now.

Booster Club Program for Year Outlined

More than 40 members, turned out for the Booster Club meeting Wednesday evening at the Gardner Park Field House.

Treasurer Gaines Crabtree told the members how their money was being spent. He reported that the club is providing miles for both the Lions and visiting players after each home game.

This year the club has repaired a movie projector, bought film editing equipment for the coaching staff and is spending "a lot of money" on the pony football program, Crabtree said.

Some discussion was on how to raise more money for the club's activities, but no definite plans were made. President Howard Miller, Vice President Howard Miller, appointed a finance committee composed of Charles Hile, Paul Pennington and William McArthur.

Coach Fred Domenico talked with the members of tentative plans which have been made for sending the Lions to Cleveland to see the Cleveland Browns in action. The team will have to have a successful season," Domenico said, "before we make definite plans for such a weekend trip."

City School Board Position On Sale of Bonds Explained

In a recent account of a Washington C. H. Board of Education meeting, it was stated in the Record-Herald in connection with the board's plan to issue a note for $45,230, that the rest of a $645,000 bond issue voted last November is being held up on the advice of the board's attorneys because of "litigation involving the Fayette County Citizens Committee."

Actually the Citizens Committee is NOT in litigation. In other words, not a party to any law suit. However, the law firm of Bricker, Marburger, Evatt and Barton, Columbus, employed as counsel by the city board, has based its advice on the very existence of a citizens committee.

IN A LETTER to the board last December, while a suit seeking establishment of a citizens committee was still pending, the law firm said in part:

"It appears that since the functions of such citizens committee involve the organization and reorganization of the school districts within your county, that the question of the boundaries of your school district is being contested as well as perhaps title of the present officers of the respective school districts within your county, which could possibly include your district."

"Under the foregoing circumstances, it is our judgment that the required signature and non-litigation certificate necessary to be furnished at the time of delivery of these bonds... may not be executed."

The letter instructed the board to reject bids on the bonds which had been called for on Dec. 13 and defer sale until "this litigation (the Citizens Committee suit) is disposed of."

The letter further says that "this situation might be further clarified were your district dismissed as one of the parties defendant in the above noted action. Upon examination of the pertinent statutes, however, it appears that there is some question as to the propriety of such dismissal since the functions of the citizens committee sought by the plaintiff would appear to involve all, rather than part, of the school districts within a county."

ON FEB. 8 after a settlement had been reached in the taxpayers' suit and the way cleared for establishment of a citizens committee, the law firm told the city board by letter:

"If this decision is not taken to the Court of Appeals and reversed, it appears that a citizens committee to be appointed in accordance with the provisions of Section 331.31, Revised Code. Under these circumstances, the bonds should not be sold until after the work of the citizens committee is completed for the reasons set forth in our letter to you of Dec. 5, 1956."

W. A. Smith, city superintendent of schools, told the Record-Herald this week that the law firm still insists that the bonds should not be offered, even though, Smith declared, "repeated efforts have been made by the board to clear the way for sale."

Awaiting final decision in the Ohio Supreme Court is an action brought by the Miami Trace Board of Education seeking to clarify the entire school bond situation and asking the court to order sale of the Miami Trace district building bonds.

While the city board, entering the Miami Trace suit as a friend of the court, took a stand in opposition to Miami Trace, it nevertheless stated that if the high court should conclude that the Miami Trace district should sell its bonds, the city board is interested that the writ be

Child in Hospital Following Collision

A Mt. Sterling man and his two small children were injured — one of them seriously — when the car in which they were riding was hit by another vehicle at Main and London Sts. there late Wednesday night.

In Fayette Memorial Hospital as a result of the mishap is John Wesley Mason, 2½, son of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Newton of Route 2, Mt. Sterling. He is being treated for major cuts and bruises.

His sister, Terry, 5, was treated for face cuts, and his father was treated for a cut in his forehead.

All three were passengers in a car driven by Howard Rollins, 27, of Route 2, Mt. Sterling, which was hit by a vehicle driven by Orris Neff, 77, of Route 2, Orient.

Mt. Sterling Police Chief L. E. Rowe said Neff was charged with running a red light. Original court appearance before Mayor Mac A. Chenowith was scheduled for Thursday, but the case was postponed until Friday.

Sale of Fairground

As was the case with the first sale offer, the lowest acceptable bid must be two-thirds of the appraised value.

IT IS GENERALLY believed that Judge Kirk will order the parcels to be offered for sale separately at the impending sale. Normally, the Fairground property proper would be offered for sale first, the parcel of land lying on the CCC highway second, and the area behind the Anderson Restaurant last.

Also, the opening bid for each parcel must be two-thirds of the appraised value. Thus, the lowest acceptable bid on the Fairground proper tract (39.774 acres) would be $44,300. The 5.674 acre tract facing on the CCC highway would have to bring $9,824 and the third plot, .952 acres, could be bought for $1,552.

Since the commissioner's lease specifies that all buildings on the property prior to Dec. 31, 1956, shall remain on the property at the termination of the lease, the appraisers evaluation of the 39.77 acre portion included those buildings. The commission's lease also specifies that any new building erected on the property after Jan. 1, 1951, shall be removed from the property within four months of the lease termination.

Maddux Restaurant Sold

Mrs. Walter Marshall, 1007 Clinton Ave., has purchased the Maddux Restaurant, 118 N. Fayette St., from Mrs. Arthur Maddux, and will go into business there Oct. 1, it was disclosed Thursday.

Name of the restaurant will be changed to the Mar-Hi, after Mrs.

Maddux, who lives at 628 High St., is planning to retire. She has operated the restaurant for nearly 18 months since the death of her husband, who was in business there for nearly 25 years.

Mrs. Marshall has been employed in various restaurants in this years, but this is her first venture in business for herself.

Her husband is a sergeant on the city police force.

Firemen Called Twice, But Arrive After Fires Out

Firemen were called out once Wednesday night and again Thursday morning — and got there late each time.

A small fire at the home of Joseph Oyer, 527 Harrison St., did damage to insulation in a clothes dryer in the basement. Fire Chief George Hall said the blaze apparently started from flames in a nearby gas heater. Firemen answered the alarm at 9:20 p. m.

Brake lining was burned out of a truck operated by Harold Streitberger, Prairie Rd. about 8 a. m. when the vehicle caught fire while in motion on the Prairie Rd. near the Route 70 junction.

Lieut. Maynard Denen said that Streitberger "apparently left his emergency brake on."

School Takes Bids On Fuel Oil Needs

The Sinclair Oil and Refining Co. was low bidder on fuel oil for the new boilers being installed at Washington High School.

Superintendent W. A. Smith said that eight oil companies were invited to bid on supplying 10,000 gallons of No. 2 fuel oil for the heating system which probably will be in operation next week. The Sinclair bid was 12.3 cents per gallon plus one cent per cent discount in 10 days.

The new boilers, which replace 50-year-old equipment used to heat high school, junior high and Central elementary areas, use a combination of oil and gas. The oil cuts in when the temperature dips to 20 degrees.

GOP Women Here Discuss Attendance At State Meeting

Ralph Hudson, a resident of Zant home through an open window, he called to find if anyone was in the wreckage and got no response. However, on his way down the house he said he saw a part of the outside wall move and realized that someone was pushing the siding.

Attendance at the fall conference of the Ohio Federation of Republican Women's Organization was one of the principal topics discussed at Wednesday night's meeting of the directors of the Fayette County Republican Women's Club at the home of Mrs. Charles S. Hire.

The conference will be held Oct. 11 in the Deshler Hilton Hotel in Columbus. It will open with a musical and reception in the Hall of Mirrors from 8:30 to 10:30 a. m. or Oct. 9. Registration will start at 9 a. m. the next day. In the afternoon of the second day, federation members will be guests at a reception, from 2 to 4 o'clock, in the new governor's mansion. The president's council will meet on the morning of the last day.

Directors of the Fayette County club are Miss Mildred Smith, chairwoman, Mrs. Charles B. Lutz, Mrs. Wendell Whiteside, Mrs. Dwight Bell, Mrs. Harold E. Longberry and Mrs. Hire.

The new span, 150 feet in length will replace the old bridge that collapsed on April 14 of this year after an abutment on the south side had been weakened by flood waters.

The last meeting of the club here this year will be held in the Common Pleas Courtroom at 8 p. m. Oct. 21. The annual election of officers will be held then.

Man in House Hit by Plane Rescued by Former WCH Man

Ralph Hudson, a resident of Zant home through an open window, he called to find if anyone was in the wreckage and got no response. However, on his way down the house he said he saw a part of the outside wall move and realized that someone was pushing the siding.

With the help of two other men, who had come to aid in any rescue, Hudson broke a window and pulled the dazed VanZant to safety.

"The whole thing couldn't have taken over two minutes," Hudson is quoted as saying.

Killed in the crash was Mrs. Mildred VanZant and her brother, Walter Geisler, Mrs. VanZant was in the home at the time of the crash, and the brother was in the back yard cutting grass.
